Differences Between Robbins and Independents Explained by Each.

MITCHELL IS QUIET

Joint Scale Committee Will Meet Again This Morning With No Prospect of Harmony.

AN ANTHRACITE STATEMENT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 25.—The situation is entirely unchanged. Tonight for the first time, Chairman Francis L. Robbins of the Pittsburgh Coal Company consented to make a statement to The Gazette correspondent in answer to an inquiry as to why he stands apart from the other operators. He said:

"Many operators are opposing my position because of a difference of opinion as to whether an agreement could have been reached on the present basis of wages. They were anxious for a settlement and would have agreed to the resolution offered by me if they had been persuaded that no better settlement could have been made.

"I first assured myself from every available and reliable source that the miners were sincere in their demands for 12½ per cent increase and that the adoption of the scale of 1903 was the limit of concession from their first demands, and they reluctantly agreed to make a scale for two years instead of for one year, as in their original demand.

"I felt that we should prevent a great industrial war by accepting the modified scale and securing peace for a period of two years and believed that our customers would rather pay a small advance for their coal supply and be assured of its permanency than to have a suspension and a possible resumption at a higher rate."

For the sake of clearness the resolution offered by Mr. Robbins was for the restoration of the wage scale of 1903, which means an advance on the screen basis of five cents the ton and he offered this for a period of two years, meaning the further entrenchment of the interstate wage agreement which has been the bulwark of the mining industry since the spring of 1898.

Statement of Other Operators.

The other side of the operators who are opposing the attitude of Robbins tonight anonymously issued the following to The Gazette correspondent:

"The issues and a disagreement may be referred to the miners' convention tomorrow, but it is quite doubtful. The fact that Mr. Mitchell did not meet with his board today and that he did not have rescinded the Ryan resolution indicates a smash-up and a strike. The miners' members in scale committee will probably not want to report the disagreement back and we do not want to take the initiative in reporting the disagreement because it is regarded as the unpopular side, although we think we have made our case clear. The miners realize that this means the breaking up of the joint interstate movement and they hesitate to take the cue. It might also mean the crippling of their organization and they so see it.

"As indicated in what we have said above, the entering of an agreement with any one interest, corporation or district would handicap the miners in an effort to make an agreement with other interests, and they fully understand this situation. This understanding of the miners is reflected in their failure to rescind the Ryan resolution, which binds us all hand and foot. Mr. Mitchell cannot save this apparent disrupture, regardless of his disposition and that of the other miners to go along with Mr. Robbins. There is nothing in prospect now but a disagreement. You will observe about the lobby that when Mitchell appears he seems to be alone. Many of his erstwhile closest friends seem to have deserted him. Mr. Robbins also stands alone.

"The prolonging of this conference means $6,000 a day to the miners' organization, and the delegates are determined to have it over at all hazards."

No Meetings Were Held.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 25.—Bituminous coal operators and miners of the central competitive and the southwestern districts will make a final effort tomorrow to come to a decision as to whether a wage scale, to go into effect on April 1, can be agreed on. The joint scale committees of the joint conferences of the two districts will resume their sessions tomorrow morning.

The situation has not changed since the joint scale committees adjourned over Sunday. Many of the operators spent Sunday at their homes. F. L. Robbins of the Western Pennsylvania operators and J. H. Winder, chairman of the operators, spent the day around the corridors of the hotel. President Mitchell did not appear during the day. No meetings were held.

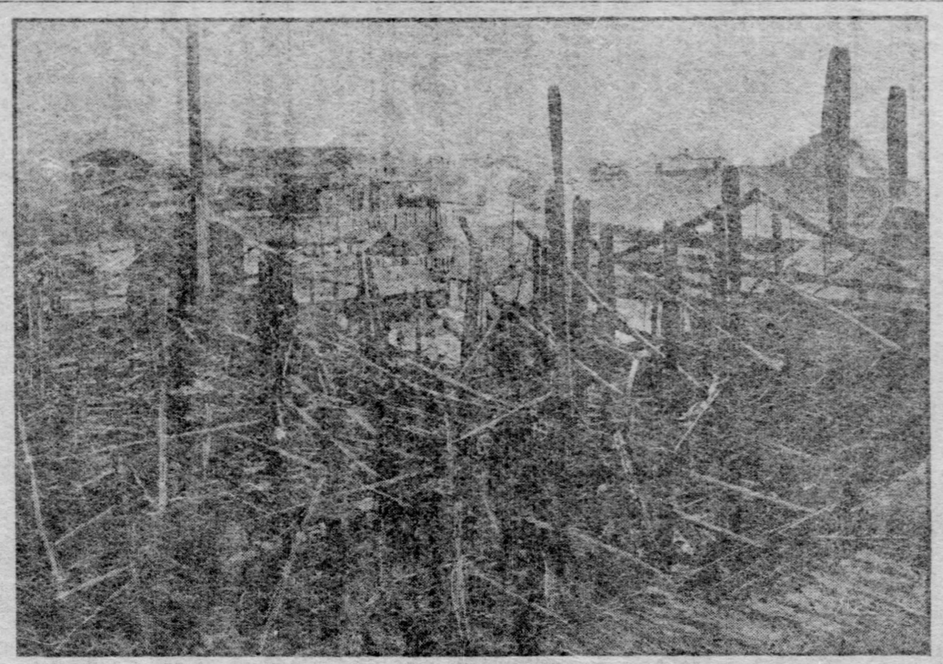
Indications point to a disagreement of the two joint committees tomorrow and the probable calling together of the joint conference tomorrow afternoon, when the fight over the wage scale will be continued publicly.

NEW YORK, March 25.—The anthracite coal operators gave out a statement today, in which they explain why in order to meet the demands made by the coal miners it will be necessary to raise the price charged the consumer by $1.20 a ton.

WIRELESS PLANT INSTALLED BY BRIGHT BOY 14 YEARS OLD

NEW YORK, March 25.—(Special.)—After experimenting for two years and having no more knowledge of electricity than may be gleaned from elementary preparation, George Lynch, 14 years of age, of Brooklyn, has so far mastered wireless telegraphy as to be able to equip his home with instruments that receive messages.

Ruins of a Fire Which Threatened Youngstown's Manufacturing Plants



MANY ARE INJURED IN A FAMILY FEUD

The Boyce, Heston and Wilfongs Have Two Fierce Battles. Fatalities May Result.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FAIRMONT, W. VA., March 25.—In a fight between the combined forces of the Boyce and Heston families on one side and the Wilfong family on the other, a dozen persons were hurt today and Isaac Boyce, aged 65, is so seriously injured that he cannot live. George Huston's skull is fractured, while Clinton, John, Edward and Joseph Wilfong and Thomas, Samuel, Gail and Worley Boyce are painfully injured.

The trouble arose over some difference between the Wilfong and Boyce boys at school. Today the fathers, Isaac Boyce and Clinton Wilfong, met in the latter's field and the fight began. Wilfong was joined by his sons, John, Edward and Joseph, and a few minutes later Boyce had to be carried to his home.

Several ribs were broken and his face battered from being kicked. Later the four other members of the Boyce family, some of whom are mere boys, enforced by the Hestons, met the Wilfongs and some of their friends in the open street, and for a quarter of an hour the fight was waged with clubs and stones.

No one interfered and at least 100 witnesses gathered to see the fight. Warrants were issued tonight, and the participants who are able to leave home will be arrested tomorrow morning.

CHILD DIES IN ITS MOTHER'S ARMS ON CAR

Family Overwhelmed by Poverty Excites Passengers' Sympathy When Death Calls.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., March 25.—Holding tight to the lifeless body of her 3-year-old child, which had died in its mother's arms in a car on the Camden Interstate Traction line, and sobbing as though her heart would break, a woman and three little children in tattered garments excited the sympathy of the passengers today. The mother had taken the children to the office of a doctor to secure medical aid for the one that had died while the little family was on its way to relatives at Credo.

During the trip to Central City many of the passengers were unable to restrain their emotions at the sad sight and mingled their tears with the unhappy mother. When the car arrived at Central City the police prevailed upon the mother to allow them to take charge of the child's body.

FORTUNE FOR SIX STEERS.

Farmer Spends $20,000 Trying to Collect $150 By Litigation and is a Pauper.

KANSAS CITY, MO., March 25.—(Special.))—Gregory D. McLean, a farmer, testified in the circuit court yesterday afternoon that in the past four years he spent every cent of his modest fortune of $20,000 trying to recover the value of six steers worth $150. Now he is seeking permission to continue the suit as a pauper, the state to pay the costs. Judge McCune denied his petition.

Four years ago a neighbor of his shipped a carload of cattle to Kansas City and six of McLean's steers got mixed up in the bunch. McLean followed the cattle to the stock yards here and recovered three head. Then he sued the neighbor and recovered the value of the other three, $75, and later brought suit against the C., M. & St. P. railroad for damages and expenses incurred in making the recovery.

COULDN'T RESIST THE FAILING OF THEIR RACE

YORK, PA., March 25.—(Special.)—A penchant for chocolate-coated candy roosters has lande Stewart Fells, Roy Price and Russell Jefferson, negro boys, in trouble. For two months local confectioners have been missing large quantities of the candy, and close watch resulted in the arrest of the boys, who have been held for the action of the grand jury.

Member of Legislature Dead.

ST. CLAIRS, PA., March 25.—Charles J. Johnson, aged 39, a member of the legislature from Schuylkill county, died at his home here today after a long illness.

FIRE DESTROYS BIG PLANT AT YOUNGSTOWN

The Enterprise Boiler Works Is Burned to the Ground—Other Plants Threatened.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 25.—Fire this morning destroyed the plant of the Enterprise Boiler Company, and for a time threatened the entire manufacturing district of the city. The Brown-Bonnell and the Bessemer plants of the Republic Iron and Steel Company were seriously threatened, and several times the plant of the former was on fire. A general alarm was sounded for the fire, but the firemen could not save the plant, and turned their efforts to saving surrounding property from destruction. The loss on the Enterprise plant is placed at $55,000, with $41,500 insurance.

The fire was caused by crossed electric wires. The fire was discovered by the watchman, who attempted to send in an alarm but the alarm box refused to work. When he tried the telephone he found communication was cut off and he had to run six blocks to the fire engine house.

By the time the firemen arrived on the scene all hope of saving the plant was given up and they turned their attention to property surrounding the boiler works. The heat made by the flames damaged the Market street viaduct and the electric wires of the Brown-Bonnell plant, as well as the long-distance and local wires of the Central Telephone Company.

The Enterprise Boiler Company's plant was destroyed by fire, two and a half years ago. George Rudd, Jr., general manager for the company, yesterday stated the plant will not be removed from the city. About 150 men were employed in the works.

LIGHTNING STRIKES MINISTER IN HIS PULPIT

Church Services Interrupted and Preacher's Life Ended by Bolt from the Sky.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CARSON, IA., March 25.—While preaching to his congregation today, the Rev. J. B. Lentz, pastor of a Latter-Day Saints church, was struck by lightning, which caused his death within an hour.

The bolt descended during a hard thunderstorm, and was communicated to the preached by a chandelier hanging directly above his head. The shock threw him to the floor in an unconscious state, while many persons in the audience were stunned.

After nearly everyone had fled from the building Lentz was carried out, but failed to regain consciousness. The church took fire, but the flames were soon extinguished.

CHILDREN FEED ON WEEDS.

Thousands of People Still on the Verge of Starvation in the Famine Region of Japan.

TOKYO, March 25.—The misery and sufferings in the famine region have been slightly relieved by the prompt and liberal aid from foreign sources and by the abatement of the rigors of winter, but thousands are still on the verge of starvation. Many parents are parting with their children, sending them to the already crowded Okayama orphange.

The severity of the sufferings undergone by the children is clearly depicted in the faces of those who are compelled to part from their homes, where the food consists of flour mixed with straw and weeds. The mixture is beaten fine, forming a pastry, which contains only 25 per cent of actual food value.

The liberal contributions from American sympathizers are already affective.

Another appeal for aid is presented by the sufferers from the recent earthquake in South Formosa, thousands of whom are homeless. The local government is busy providing food, caring for the injured and recognition and removing corpses, several hundred of which are buried under debris.

FREIGHT STEAMER TITIAN IS ON FIRE AND WRECKED

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 25.—After being in peril from fire at sea and managing by desperate efforts to reach this port in the midst of a gale and blinding snowstorm, the British freight steamer Titian struck a submerged rock in entering the harbor late last night, had a hole torn in her hull, and today lies on the beach, where she was put to prevent sinking. The fire in the midship hold is still burning fiercely.

STILETTO AND PISTOLS USED BY BOY BURGLARS

Fatally Wound Old Man, Shoot at Police and Are Arrested. Dime Novels Blamed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, O., March 25.—Three negro boys giving their names as Harry Freeman, Joseph Morris and John Henderson, were arrested by the police here today on the charge of committing three burglaries a few hours previous to their arrest and with stabbing a man so badly that he is dying at a hospital.

The boys, according to the story told by the police, broke into two hardware stores and a meat market on Woodland avenue and while coming out of the latter they saw Benjamin Levensberg, an old man who was on his way home from work, passing. One of the boys without a word plunged a stiletto into the man's abdomen, inflicting a terrible wound which the physicians say will prove fatal.

The police say that after being arrested the boys confessed that they had started out on their raid pledged to kill anybody that interfered with their work. They said they thought Levensberg had seen them in the act of robbing the meat market and that he would tell the police.

The boys were caught by the police in the act of robbing the second hardware store. They opened fire on the officers when discovered, but their shots went wild. The police say dime novels and other literature is responsible for their crimes.

BREEN STANDS BY REPORTER.

Politician, Who Smashes Newspaper Man in Face, Is Promptly Arrested on Magistrate's Order.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(Special.)—While Magistrate Breen was conducting a case in the West Side court today John McCann, an employe of John F. Curry, Tammany leader of the Seventeenth assembly district, struck George W. Seymour, a reporter, in the face, knocking his head against the gas lamps on the judicial bench, and the action so incensed the magistrate that he not only held McCann in $500 bail for further examination, but, after a vigorous denunciation, announced that he would appear as a witness against him.

Seymour complained that a crowd of politicians on the "bridge" in front of the desk interfered with his work, and it was in resenting this that McCann made the attack. Magistrate Breen had a warrant issued for McCann's arrest drawn up and duly executed. "I am going to punish this man, no matter whom it hurts," he declared. "This is the most high-handed outrage I have ever seen."

RAILROADER CLAIMS HE ROBBED TRAIN OF $80,000

LIMA, O., March 25.—(Special.)—H. A. Sloane, a Pennsylvania conductor, today walked into the police station and said that in November, 1897, he and two other men held-up and robbed an express train on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad at Galena, Ill., of $80,000. Sloan is being held while his story is being investigated. He is believed to be mentally unsound.

PULAJANES KILLED FOR TREACHERY

Battle in Samar Follows Betrayal of Americans by Native Chiefs.

FATALITIES ARE 46

Gov. Curry Was Being Chased Into Underbrush by Brown Warriors When Last Seen.

CONSTABULARY ON THE TRAIL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MANILA, March 26.—According to advices received today, the recent fight at Magtaon, Samar, between the constabulary and Pulajanes was the result of base treachery on the part of the natives. As a result of the fight, 30 Pulajanes were killed and 16 of the constabulary were killed and wounded.

A dispatch received from Capt. Jones of the constabulary at Magtaon says that on March 23 Gov. Curry, Judge Lobinger and Superintendent of Schools Hoover arrived there and camped over night near the Pulajanes. The presence of the officials was made known to the rebellious natives and their leader announced that he would surrender his force the next day. As a result of this promise, the Americans returned to the town of Magtaon accompanied by Col. Aguilar, a Pulajahe chief.

The next day, Saturday, four chiefs of the Pulajanes with over 100 men and 14 guns appeared at Magtaon and lined up in front of the constabulary barracks. Between the barracks and the Pulajanes stood the group of American officials.

One of the chiefs expressed a wish that his party be photographed in the act of surrendering, and, Supt. Hoover, in compliance with the request, was adjusting his camera when the Pulajanes' leader blew a whistle and gave an order to advance. The entire party of natives thereupon rushed upon the American officials, who escaped to the Magtaon river and swam to the opposite bank. When the treachery of the natives was apparent the constabulary immediately opened fire and a fierce fight ensued, in which the constabulary gained a decisive victory. The Pulajanes were chased to the mountains but the pursuers lost more guns than they captured.

The American officials were later found with the exception of Gov. Curry. He was last seen being chased by Pulajanes, and it is now believed he is hiding in the dense brush in that locality.

Three hundred constabulary are now on the trail of the fugitive natives and searching for Gov. Curry.

BATTLE NEAR KEBDALA.

New Troubles Break Forth in Morocco and Sultan's Cavalry Is in Danger.

PORT SAY, MOROCCO, March 25.—There is a battle progressing in the vicinity of Kebdala. The Pretender's infantry and artillery are firing briskly on the sultan's cavalry, which is operating with difficulty in the broken country along the banks of the Muluya river.

Details of the battle have not been received.

FARMER SAVES FOR DOG FEED THE EAR HE LOST BY ACCIDENT

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 25.—(Special.)—While unloading a bale of hay at a stable, Morris Robbins of West Park avenue had his left ear torn completely from his head. The ear was caught between a bevy bale of hay and the iron rod on which the big barn door slides. An unexpected starting of the horse was the cause. Robbins, after being attended by a physician, returned to the stable for his ear, which he picked up, remarking that it would do for dog feed.

FATHER AND CHILDREN DIE WITHIN FEW HOURS

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., March 25.—(Special.)—Two children of Moses Maynard of Sandy River, died yesterday of measles within an hour of each other. A few hours later the father died of the same disease. All three bodies will tomorrow be buried in one grave.

PLUNGER IS NOW IN NET OF THE LAW

S. G. Duckworth, Insurance Agent and Sport, an Alleged Embezzler.

USES FAKE POLICIES

Claim Made He Got Insurance on Life of Woman Not Dead and Man Who Never Lived.

OTHER CASES ARE HINTED AT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., March 25.—S. G. Duckworth, the local agent of the Equitable Life Assurance society, has been arrested, and the two suits filed against him in the United States court unfold one of the most sensational insurance frauds perpetrated in West Virginia in years. The briefs set forth Duckworth has obtained insurance upon fictitious persons. Behind the alleged forgeries is a story of a plunger in the pool rooms and a conspicuous character in sporting circles.

While only two suits have been brought, it is alleged that there are other similar cases in which Duckworth is concerned and that in numerous cases applications for insurance, believed now to be fraudulent, were refused by the company.

In one suit it is alleged that Duckworth, while acting as agent, had the society issue a life insurance policy for $5,000 on the life of Nancy B. Haught of West Union. The certificate of health, application and other papers seemed to be regular, and their regularity was certified to by Duckworth.

The proofs of death were sworn to before George C. Varner, notary public, whose authority was certified to by the clerk of the county court. The death was certified to by Dr. A. G. Martin as having been caused by typhoid fever. B. E. Leggett, the next friend, certified to the death and an undertaker to the burial.

In the affidavit filed in the suit it is alleged that Nancy B. Haught is Duckworth's sister-in-law, that she never applied for a policy and is now alive and well; that Varner, Leggett, Martin and the undertaker are fictitious persons and never lived. The clerk's certificate is said to be forged. Duckworth's name appears as payee on the check for the $5,000, which was paid on the policy, Lottie B. Haught, the beneficiary's name, appearing as indorser above his name.

The other suit alleges that Hugh T. Wilson was insured for $5,000, that the proofs of death seemed regular and that Duckworth swore before a notary that he had seen the corpse. The $5,000 was paid to the beneficiary, alleged to be Wilson's mother, and Duckworth indorsed the check and got the money. It is alleged that Hugh T. Wilson was a fictitious character, that his mother never existed and that all the proofs of death were forged.

SLAVISH YOUTH OF 19 SHOOTS AGED COMPANION

Wounded Man Is Carried from House by Friends in Order That Police May Find Him.

Dragich Bosara, aged 19, shot and seriously wounded Michael Danish, aged 40, in a Slavish boarding house at 2617 Larkins alley, South Side, shortly after 10 o'clock last night. The wounded man was taken to the South Side hospital, where it was found the bullet had penetrated the liver.

Bosara insisted the shooting was accidental. He said that Danish showed him a revolver to examine and while Bosara was looking at it he touched the trigger and the weapon was discharged. Bosara said he became frightened, and with the other boarders they put Danish outside of the house where the policemen would find him and sent him to the hospital.

The police say that Danish and Bosara had an altercation over Christina Dokowitch. They secured an interpreter, but the statements he got from the principals were conflicting and the police raided the house, taking nine Slavs to the station house. Danish refused to discuss the shooting.

FINDS HUSBAND DEAD.

Mrs. Nette Receives a Severe Shock When She Returns Home from a Visit.

A sad home-coming was that of Mrs. Lawrence Nette of Murtland avenue yesterday afternoon. She had gone to visit friends, leaving her husband in apparent good health. She returned home about 5:30 o'clock to find her husband lying dead on the floor of their home. The last time Mr. Nette, who was 62 years of age, was seen alive was about 2 o'clock, when neighbors saw him looking out of a window, evidently hoping for his wife's return.

The couple had no children. Mr. Nette was a member of the German Methodist church, Park avenue.

FEUDIST M'COY'S HEIRS TO GREAT FORTUNE IN WEST

OWINGSVILLE, KY., March 25.—(Special.)—Because no will can be found disposing of an estate estimated at from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 in California, the noted feud family of McCoys of Pike and other eastern counties have been notified that they are heirs to this amount of property left by Ezekiel, William and Walter McCoy, who in 1849 joined the rush to the great California gold fields. The property is in real estate, mining and shipping interests. The real estate is located for the most part near Los Angeles.

TEACHER OF ALMOST EVERY RACE LIVING ON THIS GREAT GLOBE

Mrs. Annie E. Borland Dies After 39 Years' Service as Instructress in the Franklin School—Educates Thousands of Pittsburghers.

After a continuous service as school teacher for 39 years, during which she had as pupils members of almost every race under the sun, Mrs. Annie E. Borland died last evening at her home, 49 Genesta street, Hazelwood. She was the oldest teacher in Pittsburgh in point of service, and one of the oldest in years, being 65.

The Franklin school of the Seventh and Eighth wards was the scene of Mrs. Borland's labors. During her many years of service thousands of young Pittsburghers received their early education from her. Many men and woman who have since become prominent were her pupils. When she began to teach the school house was the center of the homes of well-to-do families living in Center avenue and the cross streets. The fine houses still standing, many of them now converted into tenements or boarding houses, testify to the wealth of the former occupants. As the American families moved out, Germans and Irish moved in. They, in turn were supplanted in the past few years by Russian Jews, Italians, Syrians, Poles and negroes. During all this time Mrs. Borland continued her educational work, teaching race after race and adapting her methods to their varying capacity and their knowledge of the English language.

Mrs. Borland leaves one son, Ward E., 47 Monongahela street, and three grandchildren; she is survived by her brothers, Alger M., Wilkinsburg, and Thomas, McKeesport; her sisters, Mrs. George H. Deeds, Edgewood, and Miss Martha Borland. Mrs. Borland was a member of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church.

CONRIED'S HOST IN PITTSBURGH

Metropolitan Grand Opera Co. Gets in from Washington on Schedule Time.

"QUEEN OF SHEBA" TONIGHT

Picturesque Pol Plancon, six feet four if he's an inch, majestic and Faust-like, even in his street clothes, encased in a long fur-lined overcoat, and with his throat carefully muffled, headed the galaxy of Herr Conried's stars as they stepped from their special train at Union station at 7 o'clock last night after a trip from the national capital. Three Pullman's, a diner, six coaches and two baggage cars were necessary to bring the big Metropolitan company here, and the scenery for the week's production at the Nixon follows today in a special train of baggage cars.

From the rush made for the carriages when the company landed it was evident that the 300 or more people composing it were glad to get back to earth again. Outside in the cab shed were ranged some 25 conveyances waiting for the principals. When the onslaught began a certain Max Hirsh, on whom devolves the duty of seeing his leading performers shipped Hotelward, had a difficult quarter of an hour. For grand opera stars have to be handled with kid gloves, and Mr. Hirsh was the storm center. Surging around him were the excited, gesticulating singers and the German gutterals didn't blend at all musically with the Italian exclamations and objurgations. But Mr. Hirsh seemed to be well supplied with kid gloves. As a carriage drove up, he bundled a load inside, slammed the door shut and with a sharp word of direction to the driver soon cleared the space and the atmosphere of stars. The Schenley, Fort Pitt, Colonial, the Lincoln and others got their quota, and chorus left in small parties to find quarters wherever possible. But the whole company looked well-fed and reasonably prosperous, and according to the report of Manager Ernest Geerlitz, all are in perfect condition.

At the Nixon, Manager Thomas E. Kirk, Jr., has everything in readiness for the opening performance, which will be the initial presentation in Pittsburgh of Goldmark's "Queen of Sheba." This opera, while new here, has been given with tremendous success elsewhere, and in Washington last week scored heavily. The first row of seats in the house has been removed and a platform built on a level with the floor, so that the big orchestra, which is one of the important features of the operas, can be properly accommodated. Railroad officials have advised Mr. Kirke that all theater trains will be held for 20 minutes after the fall of the curtain, thus giving suburbanites plenty of time to reach them. The sale of seats for the entire week has been highly gratifying and indicates unabated interest in the opera.

There will be no trouble this season about police protection in front of the theater, as Director Moore has promised to detail a squad of 12 men to keep the carriages in line and see that everything goes smoothly.

MOORE ISSUES REFORM ORDERS TO THE POLICE

Near Change in Administration Noted by Many Raids on Illegal Resorts.

A reform wave, significant of the near change in the city administration, has emanated from Director Moore, and is operating through the police bureau. The police were busy yesterday raiding gambling and disorderly houses and speakeasies, making arrests by the wholesale, while Magistrate Kirby performed his allotted part by fining heavily almost every culprit brought before him.

T. H. Ford of Rochester, Pa., complained he had been robbed of $17 and a watch at the house of Bessie Hamilton in Third avenue. The proprietress, six other women and 10 men were arrested. Joseph Gass of Sewickley said he had been robbed of a watch at the house of "Jim" Swartz in Second avenue. The Swartz woman and four other females were locked up.

The speakeasy of Mary Mullen in Carson street was raided and the woman and eight male visitors arrested. Thirteen kegs and 49 quarts of beer and nine gallons of whisky were confiscated. Nine visitors were captured in the raid on another speakeasy in West Carson street in the absence of the proprietress.

The South Side police also visited a gambling house in Carson street and arrested the proprietor, John Puble, and 28 others. Puble was fined $25 and costs and the others each $5.

Four women caught in a raid on a disorderly house in Shore alley were each fined $100 and costs and three women arrested in a Sachem alley resort were each fined $50 and costs. W. G. Robinson was fined $10 and costs for keeping a gambling house in Elm street and Charles Gray, arrested there, was fined $25 and costs for carrying a revolver. Alexander Esand, charged with being the proprietor of a disorderly house in Second avenue, paid a fine of $100.

Throw Snowballs, Land in Prison.

Harry Rogers and Cecil Ross, youths, were arrested in Boggs avenue yesterday afternoon for snowballing pedestrains and were taken to No. 3 police station for a hearing this morning.

NO GREAT DANGER FOR RUSSIA NOW

Government Is More Firmly Established and Army Will Maintain Czar's Supremacy.

WITTE TO PROTECT JEWS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 25.—An important conversation with a high personage whose name or position cannot be indicated, although his competency to speak upon the situation can be vouched for, left the distinct impression that the assembling of the national parliament will bring a crisis, but not the one anticipated abroad. The government, evidently, is absolutely convinced that an armed revolution or a general uprising which would menace its life is no longer possible, and that the danger now is not that the government will be overthrown but that it will be driven to abandon its path of reform.

"The guerilla warfare which the revolutionists at present are conducting," said the personage referred to, "cannot succeed. Acts of terrorism doubtless will continue—vengeance may be wreaked upon governors, generals and police masters; Count Witte, the premier, and Minister of the Interior Durnono may be assassinated; banks and buildings may be blown up, and there may even be riots here and there—but attempts to produce widespread risings in the cities or a repetition of the railroad strikes are doomed to failure. The government has a firm grip and every measure to prevent excesses will be taken.

"Besides, the situation has been completely altered since last fall, when practically the whole of the urban population joined the protest which led the emperor to grant the manifesto of October 30. The government then was unable to cope with the extreme revolutionaries. The army in European Russia was at a low strength and filled with reservists bordering on mutiny, owing to their anxiety to return to their homes and rejoin their families, and new recruits everywhere were prevented from joining the colors.

Government Stronger Now.

"Since then all is changed. The reservists have been discharged and the recruits have been drilled and joined the ranks. Regiments which then consisted of 400 men now have 2,000 men. Two army corps have returned from Manchuria and more regulars are arriving daily.

"No matter what is said to the contrary, it is certain that the army is faithful to the emperor. The weight of troops alone renders a revolution impossible.

"Should there be Agrarian disorders in the summer, they will not be revolutionary in character, for the peasants of Russia are true to the emperor. The danger lies in another direction.

"It is not now a question of the fall of the government but of whether reform or reaction will prevail—whether the present struggle to supplant the old regime and secure larger liberties for the people will enter the parliament phase or a counter-revolution will sweep away the entire program on which the government has entered. The emperor is sincerely and honestly desirous of meeting the wishes of his people and has given them his word to this effect. But a reactionary party exists. It is composed of the aristocracy with a powerful backing in high places and, above all, it enjoys the support of the military faction which in a country like Russia is an immense factor. The military is naturally reactionary. An officer prefers to serve a Napoleon rather than a parliament. After 30 years as a republic, a strong royalist faction still exists in the French army.

Where the Danger Lies.

"Nevertheless, at the present moment the reactionary party is weak and powerless. It lacks the public following, without which it dare not move. It is easily conceivable, however, that the situation might change suddenly, should an opportunity to strike come.

"Should the parliament attempt to take the bull by the horns for the deposition of the emperor and the destruction of the whole fabric of government, the new regime might be overwhelmed with disaster. A large element of the population, especially the masses who had no share in the revolution and who reverence the emperor as a God-given ruler, might be aroused to action by the reactionaries, and the emperor, seeing the revolutionaries on one side attempting to go too far and in face of what seemed to be a poplar demand for the restoration of the old regime, might—I will not say he would—yield to what he considered the wish of his subjects."

"What would especially be deemed an act on the part of the parliament threatening such a catastrophe—a demand for the convocation of a constituent assembly?" was asked.

"Certainly, that would be equivalent to an attempt to refer the form of government to the decision of the people. It would not be tolerated; it probably would result instantly in a summons to the Preobrajensk or other guard regiments to disperse the parliament with bayonets.

Hatred of Jews Continues.

"The Russian masses, who believe that the Jews want to overthrow the emperor, are easily incited against them, and reports of attempts to inspire massacres during Eastertide unfortunately are true. Count Witte, however, has stood like a stone wall against this. His steadfast friendship for the Jews has subjected him to constant attacks. His enemies have accused him of being a Jew, of being bought by the Jews, etc. When he discovered the anti-Semitic agitation he came to the front and nipped it in the bud, and he is now issuing daily telegraphic instructions wherever there is the slightest indication of Jew-baiting.

"Of course, it is possible that slight anti-Semitic manifestations will occur during Easter, but as long as Count Witte is premier, massacres are impossible. Nevertheless, in the presence of this state of feeling, the government cannot assum the responsibility for promulgating a law of equality; the parliament itself must decide the question of the status of the Jews. This is one of the questions to which the parliament should immediately address itself.

"The most important question, however, is the adoption of some method for satisfying the land hunger of the peasants, who comprise 80 per cent of Russia's immense population. The government would prefer to leave a solution of the question, if possible, to parliament.

"Regarding the financial outlook: The present difficulty in securing a loan is due rather to the political situation abroad than to internal conditions, as foreign financiers realize that they can obtain better terms for a loan now than after the parliament meets."

Speaking of the health of the premier, it is understood that Count Witte is almost on the verge of a breakdown. He has been under constant strain since the Portsmouth conference and the personage quoted said he knew Count Witte personally would have been glad to relinquish his difficult and thankless post long ago, but that he had stuck to his desk, sometimes when so ill that a man of less will power would have taken to his bed, as he had determined if possible, to see the emperor and the country through the crisis.

MEMORIAL SERVICES ARE HELD FOR BOY ORGANIST

Large Audience Pays Tribute to Genius of Youth Who Had Talent Beyond His Years.

A large number of friends and acquaintances of Harold Evans Davies, who was the boy-organist of St. John's Protestant Episcopal church, Lawrenceville, attended a memorial service held for him in St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church, Wilkinsburg, yesterday. The Rev. Robert Patton, rector of St. Stephen's, delivered an address in which he touched on the excellent character and musical future of the boy. A musical program by the choir, and several selections by the organist of the church were also given.

When Harold Davies died on Sunday, March 11, Pittsburgh lost a lad with a bright musical career. Although but 17 year's old he filled the position as organist of St. John's with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of the church. He also presided at the organ at all large meetings of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, of which he was an active member. When a mere boy, he became a choir boy in St. Stephen's. He possessed a beautiful voice and an aptness for music that soon brought him to the notice of the choir master. He expressed a desire to learn to play the pipe organ, and after a few lessons was able to perform on it with remarkable ability. With the money which he obtained as organist of St. John's he intended to attend a technical musical school and complete his studies on the organ.

He was a son of Henry and Eleanor Davies, who live at 1309 Maple avenue, Wilkinsburg, and is survived by two sisters.

CAST OFF FOREIGN CONTROL.

Hungarian Missions by Unanimous Vote Decide to Govern Their Own Churches.

IRWIN, PA., March 25.—(Special.)—The result of the vote taken in the Hungarian missions of the Reformed church in the United States has been received by the Rev. D. A. Souders of Irwin, superintendent of missions. There was not a dissenting vote against remaining in the church in this country. With each report of the congregational vote was a request that the Board of Home Missions of the Reformed church of the United States ratify the action at its meeting in Philadelphia, April 3. At the same time a similar request will be forwarded to the executive committee of the General Synod of the church in Hungary.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS PREPARE TO CLOSE MINES

MAHANOY CITY, PA., March 25.—Mine foreman in the Schuylkill region have received orders to hurry up the measurements in all inside works so as to have them completed by next Saturday. This is taken as an indication that the anthracite companies expect a general cessation of operations after March 31. It is said the bosses have instructions to be prepared to hoist the mules from the mines in the event of settlement not being reached by that date.

Sheeley Jury Has Disagreed.

WAPAKONETA, O., March 25.—The jury in the case of Isaac Sheeley, who was indicted for attempting to dynamite the bulkheads of the Grand reservoirs a year ago, failed to agree today, after being out 52 hours, and were discharged by Judge Mathers. It is said the jury stood 7 to 5 in favor of the defendant. The fate of three others under bond on the same charge depended on the result.

CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGE NEEDED TO GET CONTROL

With Congress Deciding Federal Government Cannot Control Corporations President Is Expected to Favor Amendment of Constitution.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Will President Roosevelt now enter on the second stage of his campaign for the federal regulation of great corporations by advocating an amendment to the constitution of the United States? This question arises from the unanimous report made by the judiciary committee of the house of representatives against the recommendations of President Roosevelt that great corporations other than railroads engaged in business in more than one state should be regulated by federal laws.

In the report, written by Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin, the view was taken that the regulation of corporations by federal authority would be unconstitutional, because it would rob the different states of their police power. This report undoubtedly will be adopted by the house of representatives. The same view is taken by the other branch of congress.

President Roosevelt has for five years advocated the federal control of corporations, and has declared that if this control could not be obtained by an act of congress, for the reason that such laws might be regarded as unconstitutional, he would favor an amendment to the federal constitution.

In his first annual message to congress President Roosevelt discussed at length the subject of control of corporations, the lack of uniformity of state laws and the impossibility of adequate regulations through state action. He advocated the framing of a law which would enable the national government to exercise control, and added:

"If, however, the judgment of the congress is that it lacks the constitutional power to pass such an act, then a constitutional amendment should be submitted to confer the power."

SIR GEORGE DARWIN IS A VISITOR HERE

Staying at House of Brother-in-Law, Herbert Dupuy—To Attend Franklin Celebration.

Sir George Howard Darwin, eldest son of the famous Charles Darwin, is visiting in Pittsburgh with his wife, Lady Darwin. They are staying with Lady Darwin's brother, Herbert Dupuy, in Morewood avenue. Sir George arrived in America three days ago and in Pittsburgh yesterday. He will remain here several days, and visit the Allegheny observatory and meet Dr. Frank Schlesinger. Sir George himself being plumian professor of astronomy and experimental philosophy at Cambridge university.

Professor Darwin said last night that he will attend the bicentenary celebration of the birth of Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia next month, as a delegate from the Royal society and bearing addresses from that famous body. He will also read a paper on a scientific subject. Among Sir George's writings are "Small Deflections of the Plumb Line Due to the Movement of the Earth," "Periodic Orbits" and "Tides and Kindred Phenomena in the Solar System."

The Darwin family is a well-known illustration of Charles Darwin's famous law. Sir George's brother is a famous botanist, the fame of his father is world wide, his grandfather, Robert Waring Darwin, was a distinguished physician, and his great-grandfather, Erasmus Darwin, had a great medical practice and reputation.

MILLMEN ARE KILLED.

One Meets His Fate Three Days After Arriving in This Country from Austria.

Arriving here a week ago from Austria, Iteering Dragotin secured work at the Park steel works, Thirty-fourth street. On Tuesday, only three days after he started to work, he was struck across the chest by a beam and so badly injured that he died yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at his boarding house, 2008 Mulberry alley.

Paul Baker died at the McKeesport hospital at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Three hours before he was caught between a crane and a beam at the Duquesne steel works, where he was a fireman. He was crushed about the waist and internally injured, dying of an internal hemorrhage. Baker was married, aged 26, and lived in Fouth street, Duquesne.

The sudden deaths of three infants were reported to the coroner yesterday: William Pittout, aged six weeks, of West Magnolia street, Allegheny; Faica Colrli, five months, of 522 White street, McKeesport, and Vincenzo Colambo, 16 months old, of 9 Van Braam street.

GOV. PATTISON RESTLESS.

His Physicians State No Important Change Has Occured in Executive's Condition.

COLUMBUS, O., March 25.—Gov. Pattison had a comfortable night, according to the bulletin issued by the attending physicians this morning. A story printed today that the governor is suffering from cancer of the prostate gland is neither affirmed nor denied by the physicians. The kidney trouble from which he suffered is now said to be only a complication attending the present malady. The physicians attending Gov. Pattison gave out the following statement at 10:30 o'clock tonight:

"Gov. Pattison has been somewhat more restless, otherwise no important change has occurred since the last statement was issued. Pulse 108, respiration 24, temperature normal.

BURY EXPLOSION VICTIMS.

Twenty Funerals Are Held at Century, Two More Dead Are Recovered from the Mine.

WHEELING, W. VA., March 25.—(Special.)—The mining village at Century, where the big mine explosion occurred last week, was the scene of 20 funerals today, when the men killed in the explosion were buried. The burials were all made in the Tygarts Junction graveyard. Many of the families of the men killed are without food and clothing, and the miners' union has taken steps to care for the families.

Two more dead bodies were recovered from the Century mine today, making the total number of victims of the disaster 29. It is thought the 39 miners injured in the explosion will recover. New machinery for the mine has arrived and it is expected to have the mine in operation today. Miners from Georges Creek and Farmington are being secured.

DAVIS TO HAVE CONTROL OF NEW VAUDEVILLE HOUSE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 25.—(Special.)—Harry Davis, of the Grand opera house, Pittsburgh, is to have full control of a new vaudeville house to be opened in this city in the heart of the business district. J. H. Moore, of Detroit, who already controls two theaters in this city, is associated with Mr. Davis. A lease for 12 years with privilege of renewal has been obtained and the leased building will immediately be made over under Mr. Davis's direction at a cost of about $40,000. Continuous vaudeville is to be the attraction.

Drunken Husband Charged With Murder.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., March 25.—(Special.)—Mrs. Maria M. McMahon, a young woman, was found dead today in her home at Mount Carmel, Conn., and her husband, John McMahon, is under arrest. Cuts and bruises about her body showed that she was probably killed in a drunken brawl. Her husband has been on a debauch three weeks.

Ukase of Toleration Effective.

VILNA, RUSSIA, March 25.—The Roman Catholic Bishop has sent a report to the synod showing that since the ukase of religious toleration over 30,000 members of the orthodox church have become catholics.

STOPS MAIL FOR MEDICAL OFFICES

Postmaster General Cortelyou Moves Against Bogus Concerns in Big Cities.

RECALLS SUIT CASE MYSTERY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Orders have been issued by Postmaster General Cortelyou, instructing postmasters at New York and Brooklyn, to refuse to admit to the mails the advertisements of 52 illegal "medical offices" located in those cities, and also to refuse to deliver mail matter received addressed to the fictitious and assumed names under which parties conducting these concerns hide their identity. For some time the department has had inspectors working in New York gathering the necessary evidence.

This action is in line with efforts previously made by Postmaster General Cortelyou in Boston and Philadelphia, to enforce the law against this class of criminal concerns. A statement given out at the postoffice department today, says:

"The condition of affairs which has developed under the departments investigations in all of these cities, has been appalling. It was found that in a large number of instances those engaged in conducting these offices have criminal records and are 'dope fiends.' In Boston one of the concerns excluded by the department from the mails was supposed to have been the office at which was performed the fatal operation upon the young woman, Susan Geary, the suit case murder.

"One of the 'doctors' whom the department found identified with several of these 'offices' in Boston was also connected with the Susan Geary case. The number of deaths that have been caused in these offices can never be known."

BELIEVE BULLETS WERE INTENDED FOR GORDON

McCaffrey Fired Shots After Seeing Judge's Son Entering Family Residence.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—That John J. McCaffrey, a demented machinist, who fired two shots through the parlor window of the residence of former Judge James Gay Gordon late Sunday afternoon, had planned deliberately to shoot the judge, was made more evident by today's developments. A minute before the bullets were fired through the window the judge's son, James, who bears a strong resemblance to his father, entered the house. Hardly had he hung his hat and coat on the hall rack when the shots were fired.

"It may be, in fact, it looks very much as though this fellow McCaffrey had mistaken my son for me," said Judge Gordon at his home today. "The shooting occurred just at the time that I usually arrive home for dinner. Yesterday I was detained a little longer than usual at my office.

"I shall not make any charge against the man, but will be at the hearing because the authorities have asked me to be there. If he is mentally unbalanced, as he certainly seems to be, he should be put in an institution, and if possible cured of his malady. I only hope that such is the case for the poor fellow's sake."

Smythe Instead of Smith to Speak.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—Prof. Albert H. Smythe of the Boys' High school, this city, has been designated by President Roosevelt to speak on behalf of the United States at the Franklin bi-centenniary exercises in Paris on April 20, as Charles Emory Smith, originally selected, found it impossible to go abroad at the time fixed for the exercises.

NEWS OF NEARBY TOWNS.

BUTLER—Barry Davidson, a farmer of Callery Junction, who was struck by an engine at Evans City, died at the Butler hospital. Davidson was 32 years old and unmarried.

WASHINGTON—The annual banquet of the Washington board of trade will be held in the banquet hall of the Elks club Thursday evening. Attorney R. W. Irwin will act as toastmaster.

GREENSBURG—John O'Brien, a porter in the Victoria hotel, Wireton, was awarded $2,000 damages against the Monongahela Electric Company. While turning on an electric light O'Brien received burns which necessitated the amputation of his right hand.

NEW CASTLE—Edward, the 6-year-old son of Ernest Gulutch, was probably fatally burned by the explosion of a can of kerosine oil. He was playing with the oil near a stove when it caught fire.

YOUNGSTOWN—The contractors and the stone cutters have failed to reach an agreement for the coming year. The contractors and the stonemasons agreed on the same scale as last year, which calls for 50 cents an hour. The stone cutters wanted none but union men employed.

NEW CASTLE—A plea for closer alliance of the wage earners and union men was made in an address by Charles O. Sherman, chief of the city's workers of Chicago, who spoke at a mass meeting of Amalgamated men. He told them their methods are antiquated.

SHARON—Fire resulting from a defective flue destroyed the residence of Robert Clark. All the household effects were saved. The loss is $2,000, partially covered by insurance.

FAIRMONT—While playing at a glass factory Christ Yost, aged seven, fell into a pit and was so severely injured that he may die.

CUMBERLAND—Cards have been issued for the wedding of Frank L. Fisher of McKeesport, Pa., and Miss Maryland Virginia Walker of this city. The wedding will take place Wednesday, March 28, at the home of the bride.

CUMBERLAND—The handsome frame residence of C. J. Orrick was destroyed by fire. The family of James Sloan, a son-in-law of Orrick, who occupied the house, escaped in their night clothes. Shortly after Sloan and his family got out the house fell in. The total loss is over $11,000, partly covered by insurance.

ALLIANCE—Ross Dobson, aged 23, a Pennsylvania Company brakeman, died at the Alliance hospital from injuries received in being caught between a car and a stock chute.

AKRON—William G. Haldcroft, aged 60, committed suicide at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Scroggy of Cuyahoga Falls, by drinking carbolic acid. He leaves a widow. No cause for his action is known.

CUMBERLAND—A. H. Mitchell, aged 58, whose legs were ground off in the cogs of a machine at the plant of the Queen City Tile and Brick Company, died at the Allegany hospital in this city.

CUMBERLAND—A rear-end collision occurred near Orleans Cross Roads on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and a caboose and four cars were piled up across the tracks, and the engine of the rear train was derailed. Engineer David Ewing was painfully injured.

CARNEGIE WOULD LIMIT APPEALS

Favors Governmental Control of Rates, but Against Helping Big Shippers.

WRITES VIEWS TO M'LEAN

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 25.

Andrew Carnegie has taken a hand in the discussion of the railroad rate bill. He would limit the right of a railroad to appeal from the decision of the interstate commission to cases in which the rate would affect the earnings of the railroads $100,000 or $200,000 a year. In a letter received here by John R. McLean, Mr. Carnegie says:

"The trouble with appeals to the courts lies in the fact that railroad companies have their permanent legal staff, which will always retard, and sometimes may defeat justice.

"The great shippers who could afford to fight appeals are those who benefit by secret rates or rebates. They are quiet, and wish no change.

"The small shippers must suffer, especially if appeals can always be taken. They can spare neither the time nor the money it would require to obtain justice.

"The best remedy, as it appears to me, is to allow appeals only when a proposed change of rates affects the railroads to not less than —— dollars per annum. The amount should be what may be considered high by uninformed parties, but it is a trifling change, which does not entail loss to a railroad company of $100,000 or even $200,000 a year.

"The commission should be trusted to decide trifling cases fairly, while the railroad companies should be entitled to the judgment of the courts when their revenues are seriously impaired.

"Government control of railroad rates I consider imperatively required. Other nations have found it so. So shall we."

SUSAN B. ANTHONY'S MEMORY HONORED IN PUBLIC MEETING

NEW YORK, March 25.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt presided at a meeting of appreciation of the life and work of the late Susan B. Anthony in the Hudson theater today, and attended by several hundred women. The meeting was under the auspices of the interurban political equality council of New York. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Lillie Devereaux Blake, W. M. Ivins, Ella A. Boole, Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, Mrs. Charlotte A. Wilbur, Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, Anna Garlin Spencer and Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch.

EATEN OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME

How a Confirmed Dyspeptic Developed an Appetite Like a Corn-Husker's and Cleaned Out Everything in Sight.

The wife of a leading druggist of Des Moines tells how her brother was changed from a dyspeptic without appetite to a prodigious eater.

"My brother, who is a lawyer in Chicago, came to visit me and I hardly knew him on his arrival he was so thin and run down. I had not seen him for years and was much alarmed at his appearance. He told me not to worry as he had been in this condition for years as a result of chronic dyspepsia. I asked him what he had done for it, and he said he had done everything—taken every remedy he had ever heard of and consulted doctors without number, none of them helped him. I asked him if he ever took Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and he said he hadn't and what was more he wouldn't. He had sworn off taking medicine of any kind.

"I had my husband bring home a box from the store and I actually made him take one or two of the tablets after he had eaten. They made him feel so much better that he offered no further objection. He had not taken the one box before he was greatly improved and three or four boxes cured him of dyspepsia and gave him a wonderful appetite. He came near eating us out of house and home. My, but it did me good to see him eat. He gained 15 pounds before he returned home, and he writes me that he has not been troubled with dyspepsia since."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of their work of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluid and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by thus relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. One box will frequently effect a perfect cure.

Sill length—White or Arab, and a choice line of patterns—the lot comprising about 250 pairs. In Moving, more or less windows than before interfere often with the use of present curtains—too few—too many—too good—too cheap—for uses desired, often puzzle the housewife and cause much worry.

Our Curtain Department is your relief—the stock abounds in values and economies that are a real boon these troublous moving times.

There are odd pairs—two and three pair remnants—and broken lines that are being closed out at rare bargains, and then, The New Stock—in the lower priced, as well as the higher, is so complete that it meets any purse profitably. Don't worry about your curtains—come here.

Misrepresentation never enters an advertisement over our name. We sell both the best and the cheapest goods at the lowest market prices, and every bargain—or reduction offered is a bonafide one.

Newspaper Excellence Is Reached In Yesterday's Issue of The Gazette

Newspaper excellence was certainly attained in The Gazette of yesterday. New features were added, old ones improved, departments which have become popular with The Sunday Gazette's thousands of readers were brighter and better than ever, the news service was unexcelled. The Sunday Gazette's half-tone section was up to the mark of its predecessor; it was hardly possible to make it better. It was full of illustrations, timely and trite. There was scarce a picture in it but was familiar to some of The Gazette's readers. Most of them appertained to things here at home, and those which did deal with subject matter somewhat removed from the local field, were of a nature to make them at once appealing. The popularity of the half-tone section is best attested by the ever increasing demand for them. The Sunday Gazette is trying to meet it, and so far has succeeded, but a good many "extras" will have to be printed for next Sunday if the increase is proportionately as great as it has been in the past two weeks.

The Home Journal section needs no words of praise. It speaks for itself. Its clientele is found in every home in the Pittsburgh district. Yesterday's section contained all of those pleasing stories so suited to women readers. And then the household hints and suggestions as to dress and economy in various womanly caprices are of great value. The same corps of capable writers who have helped make the Home Journal section so popular were contributors yesterday.

The Worker's Magazine contained another array of those sterling articles of benefit to the workers. These articles do not deal exclusively with the workshops and mills, but point out many things of value which would probably never suggest themselves to the average reader. The Worker's Magazine is composed not only of entertaining reading, but each Sunday is replete with gems which should be cut out and filed away. They will come in handy some day.

There are numerous hearty laughs in every page of the Comic section of The Sunday Gazette. The ingenius Mr. Coon had a happy thought and profited thereby, with the assistance of an animal friend. Little Jimmy Swift, Sammy Sneeze, the Tiny Tads and Buster Brown all aided to rounding out a pleasing number.

LAST MEETING OF THE OLD COUNCILS IS HELD TODAY

Final Sessions of the Expiring Organization Promises to Be Unique by the Absence of Any Farewell Ceremonies.

The last meeting of the old city councils will be held today. It will be the final meeting of the councils which for the past two years have been controlled by the expiring Hays-Bigelow administration. It will be succeeded on next Monday by two bodies, the majority in each being Republicans.

Select council under its present organization will hold its last meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock. There is a veto from the mayor of the Thirty-second ward engine house and a number of bills of minor importance from common council to consider, and then the final adjournment will be taken. The session this afternoon promises to be comparatively brief and without any special ceremony.

The last meeting of common council tonight will also probably be free of any farewell scenes. On some occasions when councils adjourned after a harmonious term it was the custom for members to make farewell speeches and bestow presents on the retiring officers. The initiative in such ceremonies were generally taken by the majority side, but there is no indication of this custom being observed this time in either branch.

Presidents Wightman of select and Ward of common retire with the present councils. Of the 56 members of the present common branch only 16 were re-elected. Five others, one from the Thirty-ninth and four from the Fortieth wards, are hold-overs under the law which provided for the annexation of the two boroughs to the city. The 16 members of common council re-elected to new councils are: F. W. Bonini, Samuel Shenkan, Samuel Frankel, J. J. McKelvey, W. A. Collins, W. A. Martin, A. V. Simon, William Brand, J. O. Bockstoce, M. E. O'Brien, D. K. Barton, John F. Semmelrock, John A. Bergmann, T. P. Wallace, George F. Cronmiller, Charles Gulland.

Four members of the common will be seen in select branch on and after April 2—J. J. Hughes, C. C. Kohne, Andrew Pfannkuch and John Taylor. The next select branch will consist of 40 members, the addition being the newly elected member from the Fortieth ward, formerly Esplen borough.

Twenty-five of the present members of select will sit in the new councils, 18 of them being hold-overs. Including those re-elected, the selectmen who will retain their seats after April 2 are P. F. Toole, E. J. Edwards, W. H. McKelvy, P. A. Manion, Peter Hermes, Max Friedman, William McKelvey, E. A. Sweeney, P. B. Kearns, H. E. Burns, Edward Kenna, S. G. Lennox, Charles Stewart, E. R. Walters, J. H. Schlernitzauer, T. O. Atkinson, L. H. Frederick, W. H. Weber, John Casserly, John Howarth, C. J. Gallagher, John Hogue, Charles Cavett, Charles Zollinger, T. J. Hawkins.

THREE PASTORS TO ENTER NEW FIELDS

Important Announcements in Woodlawn, Central and Braddock Presbyterian Churches.

CHANGES COME MAY FIRST

The Rev. James Douglass Campbell, who for two years has been acting as supply for the congregation of the Woodlawn Presbyterian church, has been unanimously called to the regular pastorship, with a substantial increase in his salary. Mr. Campbell was born in Canada and after his graduation from educational institutions in Toronto and Montreal, spent a year in traveling through Europe, partly on pleasure, partly for study. Returning from Europe he decided to visit the United States and Pittsburgh being known as the center of Presbyterianism, he came to this city first. Shortly after his arrival he was asked by the Woodlawn congregation to preach for them, with the result that he was prevailed upon to remain as stated supply. Since he began his work the church has doubled in membership, the majority of the members being young men. Under his regular pastorate still further progress is predicted for the church.

To accept a call to the Central Presbyterian church of Philadelphia the Rev. William G. Reagle, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Braddock, announced to his congregation yesterday that he wished to leave on May 1. He received the call some time ago, but only recently decided to accept it. He called a congregational meeting for April 4 to act on his resignation. Dr. Reagle has been pastor of the Braddock church for 13 years, in which time the membership has increased from 200 to 600.

The Rev. J. Allison Platts, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, Allegheny, yesterday morning announced to his congregation that he has decided to accept the call to the Bellefonte, Pa., Presbyterian church, tendered him a week ago. He requested that he might be released so as to assume his new pastorate on May 1. A congregational meeting will be held on April 4, when the matter will be acted upon, and it will go before Allegheny Presbytery at its meeting on April 17.

Mr. Platts is just recovering from a severe illness, and went to the church yesterday only in order that he might present to his people his decision on the call. The pulpit was filled at the morning service by Dr. Frank Foster of the American Tract Society, St. Louis, and in the evening by the Rev. W. A. Roulston of the Bellevue Presbyterian church.

WOMAN IS BURNED WHILE TRYING TO SAVE TRUNK

A one-story frame building occupied by William Gorman, a negro, at 498 Lenora street, was gutted last night by a fire, causing a loss of $500. Mrs. Gorman was sleeping in the front room when she was awakened by the smell of smoke. Jumping out of bed, she pulled open the door of the adjoining sleeping room, when smoke and flames rushed out. She attempted to pull out a trunk from the burning room, when a neighbor woman grabbed her and pulled her from the house. Mrs. Gorman was slightly burned about the neck, and most of her hair burned off her head.

Flowering plants and rose bushes and green plants are offered to our public about this time each year for prices away below what such floral variety usually sells for.

It is the business of this store to sell seasonable things and wanted things under price, and this sale today, and throughout the week, is on that basis.

It will be held in the East Basement, and among the variety set out for choice are such species as follows:

HOLLYHOCKS, PHLOX, HONEYSUCKLE,
BOSTON IVY, CLEMATIS, HYDRANGEA,
MOSS ROSE, CRIMSON RAMBLER, DOROTHY PERKINS,
YELLOW RAMBLER, MAGNA CHARTA, MADAM G. LUIZET,
LA FRANCE, SPIREA, YUCCA FILLAMENTOSA.

All the flowers and bushes and plants are in splendid health. Some are potted, others are wrapped with live soil.

The Sale of Dinner China Which Begins Today.

Fine Black Silk Coats.

Many of these coats are the exact copies of Paris styles and the others are creations of the best designers on this side. We have quite a large assortment of which there are no two alike, and they all show the originality for which this maker is famous.

They are made of fine taffeta, peau de soie and moire antique, in many different styles, among which are pretty Eton models, the chic French coat and three-quarter and full length styles, of which quite a number have an Empire tendency. Fine braids, embroideries and ornaments and pretty stitching are lavishly used.

Prices range from a neat little Eton of taffeta, prettily strapped and stitched, at $12.00, to a handsome long coat of finest chiffon taffeta, exquisitely trimmed, at $85.00.

A Plenteous Variety in Separate Skirts.

So large and varied is our skirt stock for Spring that no matter what your taste may be, the skirt that you are looking for must be here. The same may be said regarding your size, for we make it a point to have a complete line of sizes in all skirts.

This may seem as a pretty strong assertion considering the many styles and materials used in the skirts for this Spring, but we are able to stand back of it with the goods, as we can safely say that our stock is most complete in every way.

Today we give, for example, a few of the higher priced skirts in gray worsted and fine plaids. Skirts in which the plaids must match or they would not be here.

$15.00—Skirts of fine hard finished worsted in a medium shade of gray. Made with five gores, full circular cut, yoke formed by tucks. Inverted pleats down front and back. Deep fold of material around bottom.

$18.00—Skirts of hard finished worsted in a beautiful shade of gray. Full circular cut of 7 gores, panel front and back formed by 12 fine tucks, row of fine tucks around bottom from front to back.

$18.75—Skirts of fancy broken plaids in black and white and blue and white. Full two-piece circular cut, trimmed with bands of material down front and around bottom of skirt.

$20.00—Skirts of fine worsted in medium and light gray. Made in a full circular effect with triple box pleat on each side of front and back with cross tucks between, forming a very pretty trimming with clusters of four-inch tucks running around bottom from front to back.

$20.00—Skirts of fine worsted in a beautiful queen's gray. Made in a full circular model, triple box pleat front and back. Trimming around bottom formed by stitched bands with tucks between.

$22.50—Skirts of fine worsted in a very stylish black and gray plaid. Two-piece full circular with yoke effect. Box pleat down front and three wide bias folds around bottom.

Fancy Needlework—The Little It Costs.

One new Spring line of stamped, tinted and embroidered Pillow Tops, is now ready. Such completeness is praiseworthy. We are showing floral, conventional, lodge and college pillows, in designs that may be said to be both unique and modern, stamped on best Art Ticking, top and bottom, 25c and 50c for the two.

Latest designs in stamped and tinted Table Covers on art linen, best tinting, suitable for library and round tables, 28 inches at 25c each; 30 inches at 50c; 36 inches at $1.25.

Tinted Table Runners—20 by 54 inches—on tan linen, in oriental colorings—stamped for cutlining—85c value—50c each.

Spring Wash Waists $1.00 and $1.50.

Six hundred new white waists came in Saturday to sell, some for $1.00, others for $1.50.

Like if you would compare them with any waists you find round town selling for $1.50 and $2.00.

The way cotton is going up makes it a grave question whether it will be possible to sell a fine lawn waist at $1.00 or $1.50 after these are gone.

There is a great assortment of styles and trimmings, but only one color—white.

Long or short sleeves.

Women's New Coats for Spring, $10.00.

They Are the Grade That Sell Regularly for $13.50 and Up to $25.00.

Stirring news for Monday. Short coats and three-quarter length coats and full length coats—tan, covert black broadcloth, mixed tweed and cravenettes.

The cravenetted coats are raincoats and they are full length so as to afford ample protection.

Only 150 of the coats, a handful that our buyer picked up in New York late last week and succeeded in getting them here in time for today's business.

Various labor organizations in this city pay over $25,000 a year in rentals for headquarters and assembly rooms. For $100,000 they think they can provide a temple that will accommodate all of them. It should be a very good investment on that basis and the project ought to succeed. The private ownership of land should not militate against it, either.

Dismissal will no longer be the sole penalty for hazing at the naval academy in Annapolis. Hazing will be graded according to its maliciousness and brutality and punishment will be prescribed according to the grade. Dismissal may be ordered, but milder penalties may be inflicted where the offense is more mischievous than dangerous. Congress has so decreed.

A resolution is pending before congress to further reduce the cost of printing public documents. There is room for economy in this matter. More economy can be effected, however, by cutting off the utterly useless distribution of free seeds. Between the two enough money can be saved in five years to build a 20,000-ton battleship and it takes nearly that long to build one. The battleship will be of more use.

Since Senator Elkins of West Virginia and Gov. Cummins of Iowa have made an interchange of compliments that have bearing on the campaign of each for re-election, the people may sit up and take notice. At an earlier stage both might have given the notorious advice to those who live in glass houses, but since the stone-throwing has begun the general public can do nothing but look on. It does seem, however, that one of Cummins' stray dornicks has hit the Foraker greenhouse.

Dr. Osler's jocose remark about the comparative uselessness of man for the activities of this life after the age of 60, has brought out a rival in the person of Prof. Minot of Harvard. Prof. Minot declares old age begins at 25. A man of 30, he says, is not nearly as likely to have an original idea as one of 20. The Harvard professor, like Dr. Osler, must be speaking in a Pickwickian sense. If he was in earnest he certainly would have placed the beginning of old age at birth, for there is where it really begins.

Canine appellations are being too freely bandied about by some of the notabilities of New York. District Attorney Jerome declares the Hon. Bird Coler "has proved himself a yellow dog." The Hon Mr. Coler retorts that Jerome is "a dirty cur." These social amenities are not original. Judge Hamilton, of insurance investigation notoriety, was called the "yellow dog" and denounced his traducers as "curs." Is there not a change that can be rung on these epithets that will relieve monotony for a wearied and disgusted public?

Commenting on the appeal of Dr. Levy for aid to the famine sufferers in Japan a correspondent expresses the opinion we should give more liberally to the British unemployed. There can be no question there is lively sympathy among Americans for the unfortunates in London, but the case is not analagous with the other cases mentioned. There is a difference between accidental and temporary circumstances and the results of governmental economic policy. America is always generous in relieving distress, but can hardly be expected to support Great Britain in maintaining a false policy in its economics.

A government pamphlet gives some interesting figures of the earnings of home workers of Germany by whom nearly all the German toys are made. The wages paid to these persons, men, women and children, are astonishingly small. For instance, for 60 wooden soldiers, on which an adult and three children work 30 hours, but 29 cents is paid. Again two men and one woman can earn only $4 56 for 192 hours work making harmonicas. This is a pitiful reward indeed for such labor, and it is no wonder the German government has recognized the fact and is looking for means to better the condition of these people.

A Great Traffic.

According to the report of the department of commerce and labor 53,629,000 tons of freight passed through the Detroit river during the year 1905, of which 13,648,000 tons went north and 39,991,000 tons came south. The largest item of north-bound commerce was coal, 11,928,000 tons; while of the south-bound commerce 32,900,000 tons consisted of "ore and minerals."

It is not difficult to detect the great interest of Pittsburgh in this greatest water borne commerce in the world. The greater part of the ore and minerals have reached this region; the greater part of the coal went forth from Pittsburgh district mines. This great commerce touches nearly the prosperity of Pittsburgh; it is a part of that enormous tonnage that has made this city pre-eminent among the centers of population of the world.

It is important to this city and this region that no interruption shall come to the inflow of ore or the production of coal. The people of the Greater Pittsburgh are not wholly dependent on these things, but they are intimately interwoven with all that Pittsburgh stands for. And in this commerce of Pittsburgh the lake cities are greatly interested, also.

Grade Crossing Again.

A party of seven including three generations of one family met death on a grade crossing on the Philadelphia & Reading railroad on Saturday. This is but one of the many accidents of the same sort that will be reported this year, yet there is no law in Pennsylvania to prevent the creation of new danger spots of the same kind. There ought to be.

Neither the railroad builders nor the road builders of 30 years ago can be greatly blamed for the existence of these crossings. They could not foresee the great dangers that have come with the increasing speed of railroad trains and the crowding of population. There is no such excuse, however, for men of the present. The bloody history of the crossing at grade is too well known since the number of trains has been multiplied by 10 and the number of persons crossing tracks by nearly as many. No new crossing at grade should be permitted and all persons in interest should co-operate to abolish those now existing.

Rescue Niagara.

Prompt action by the governments of this country and Canada is needed to save Niagara Falls. This is the burden of the report of the international waterways commission, after investigation. Others claim the grants already made on both sides of the famous cataract are sufficient to destroy the spectacle when they are utilized. These estimates are sufficiently alarming to arouse public interest that has hitherto been no more than half awake.

It is monstrous to contemplate the utter destruction of one of the grandest displays in nature without emotion. The work of despoiling it has gone on to the danger point, if not beyond, simply because the magnificent spectacle has belonged to the world at large. Had it been owned by a corporation or an individual the robbery would have been stopped long ago.

It is not meant to charge the Niagara power companies with deliberate despoliation. They have merely sought franchises that promised good returns. Their stockholders will regret, as much as anybody, destruction of the grandest waterfall in the world. The thing has grown out of natural conditions of human enterprise and thoughtlessness. It is the government authorities having control over the grants who have been most in error. They should have calculated the volume of water and stopped short of granting it all. If they have not given it all away they should stop now; if too many grants have been made steps should be taken to recover them at whatever necessary cost.

Kansas, Breezy Kansas.

When in search of entertainment or amusement, turn to Kansas. If in pursuit of the unusual in social or domestic economy turn your eyes on Kansas. For anything new or odd in the political line make a bee line for the Sunflower state, for there you will find that which you are seeking already done up in quantities to suit the purchaser. In fact, if you desire any particular thing and have failed to secure it, direct your inquiries to resourceful Kansas. All of this leads up to the discovery of one of the funny things in politics periodically emanating from that state. It is found in the call issued for a joint Democratic-Populist convention in Mitchell county. It indorses President Roosevelt and his "square deal" principles, and refers to him as "that matchless statesman." It is printed in the Beloit Gazette, a Republican paper, by request, with this comment: "It is an unique call, more of a political harangue than a call. But there are truths in it, for all that, and its ideas will have to be heeded by Republicans generally, or there will be something doing."

Sure. When has there been a time when something wasn't "doing" in Kansas. The greatness of the state is not alone in acres, but in the charm of the infinite variety of her people which has been impervious to time and custom. This call, which has the quasi indorsement of a Republican paper, does not limit those who may participate in the primaries to Democrats and Populists, but in generous and sweeping phrase includes all voters "who believe in an honest administration of state affairs and the fearless enforcement of all laws on the statute books." That is comprehensive enough. They are sentiments any good citizen can subscribe to without offending his party conscience or fealty. We pressume that is just what the Republican brethren of Kansas believe in and vote for. But the liberality of the call further appeals to us when it is disclosed that the author, while a lifelong Democrat, believes that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, and that the establishment of a governmental truth, no matter by whom it is promulgated, is of far more importance than a mere party name. That is true, but it takes a party with a name to establish these things. If we read the call correctly the indorsement of Roosevelt and his "square deal" policy means the Democratic-Populist convention of Mitchell county, Kansas, will, in the nature of things, be in line with the principles and hopes of the Republican party. It could not well be otherwise and stick to the spirit of the call. However, in Kansas they do not always stick.

Indian Territory Oil.

For some time past the oil producers in Indian territory and Oklahoma have been trying to curtail production, but with little success. The Indian lands leases contain a clause requiring dilligent operation, by order of the department of the interior at Washington. Curtailment is not possible without violation of that clause. The pipe line runs for the mid-continent field are above 50,000 barrels a day; the shipments are little more than half that amount and the price of oil is very low.

This situation is made vastly worse by the completion of a well in the Creek nation, near Sapulpa, far south of previous developments that is flowing 600 barrels a day, natural. With a "shot" it is estimated this well would make 3,000 or 4,000 barrels a day. It opens a large area of new territory that will tempt producers to hustle for leases and it may cause an addition of thousands of barrels daily to the surplus production.

In this condition of things it would be to the advantage of the Indian land owners, as well as that of the oil operators, to have the "immediate operation" clause abrogated. Secretary Hitchcock has been asked to suspend this clause. He ought to do so and it may be confidently expected he will when he has investigated the subject. The territories had fulfilled the prediction of The Gazette, of a year ago, that they would drown Kansas in oil before the Sapulpa well was drilled. With this extension and unrestricted operation they will drown the Standard Oil Company, too.

Some of our Democratic contemporaries continue to manifest much concern about Republican party movements. The Republican party cannot return the compliment, for it doesn't care a fig what the Democratic thunder-makers think.

It is not easy to please a professional reformer. Some of the species are kicking on the reduction in the price of gas in Philadelphia because public revenue is no longer derived from gas consumers.

Two Japanese have been arrested for investigating Russian defenses at Vladivostok. Just at present the ice blockade is the port's most effective protection.

Gen. Kuropatkin was pretty late in announcing the real cause of Russian defeat in Manchuria, and, we fear, equally premature in hailing Russian liberty.

An advance in wages has been given the iron ore miners and preparation is made for a larger output than last year. The coal miners are not the whole thing.

While the Japanese have made the most effective use in war of the torpedo-boat they are more anxious to increase their battleship contingent.

Work on the Panama canal is being retarded by failure of congress to decide on the type of the waterway.

For a brief period the peace of the world appears to be pretty well anchored, but China will bear watching.

Pennsylvania's monument at Vicksburg does the state credit, as it does honor to its fellow heroes.

Kaiser Wilhelm continues ready to promote any trouble that may help German commerce.

It is quite a shock to the miners to discover the fallibility of John Mitchell.

Georgia and Texas are busy computing their losses on fruit that never grew.

They are nearer a settlement at Algeciras today than at Indianapolis.

When the opportunity offers to "Hail! gentle spring," it probably will.

Labor should find a good investment in Pittsburgh realty.

Answers to Correspondents.

J. M. S., Ridgeway.—The tonnage passing the Sault Ste. Marie canal during 1905 aggregated 44,270,630. We have not at hand the statistics for the Suez canal for last year, but the traffic was probably not more than one-third of that through the "Soo."

A. B. S.—Replying to your second query. Authorities differ. Answer was based on an experiment made in this city. Some standard books hold to the contrary. Various correspondents have written to correct the answer given, citing the well-known vacuum tube test. Better consult a competent engineer.

Not a Successful Occupation.

The effort to create the impression in this country that the Russian empire is tottering again will not be as successful as the former efforts in this direction, as most of those who were heretofore in the business of overturning the Romanoffs have had to accept sub-editorships in the provinces.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

THE TEACHER.

When you count your many blessings
Don't forget the teacher's part,
In the training of your children
Guiding mind, and hand and heart.

Who has most to do with children
In the busy hours of day?
Mothers, stop and add the teacher
In your blessings, as you pray.

If your child can't learn his lesson,
Faithfully she seeks the cause;
Conscientiously to find it
Many time, she makes a pause.

If she finds his thoughts go wand'ring
Or he stops to talk or play,
Thank her when she finds the reason
For she hesitates to say,

"He is slow at adding figures,"
"Spelling tangles up his tongue,"
"He is mussy in his writing,
Tho' it's just because he's young."

There is honor due the teacher,
Let ours not be meager praise;
Thanking God she works with patience
During all his growing days.

Count your privilege as lacking
If you fail each day to ask
Blessing on the faithful teacher
In her toiling, patient task.

Man's Struggle for God's Morality.

Religion Founded on Absolute Right, the Great Spiritual Dynamic.

By A MINISTER.

If any doubts exist—and they certainly do exist—about the relation of religion to morality, will the perplexed reader give a thoughtful perusal to the opening chapter of Paul's letter to the Romans? That ought to dissolve all hard questions thoroughly. It is perhaps the most penetrating and direct treatment of the subject to be found in literature.

Although not set forth in the strict terms of the "logic of doctrine," the reasoning is clear. The sum of it is in one verse: "As they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient." And then follows the arraying of the worst of the world's old vices. A modern congregation, with its delicate refinement of sensibilities—if not of soul—would be reluctant, it may be, to believe that such blunt and horrible iniquities have aught to do with religion—or irreligion—but since it is given in Scripture, for once blind respect for the Bible leads the churchmen to accept that which a modern saint would have considerable temerity to preach.

The essence of religious teaching is morality. It may not be the last word—perhaps it is only the first word—but it is a sure and unshaken word in every pulpit which is honest and fearless—which is inspirited with the presence of a man. All things of knowledge, all ecstacies of religious feeling grow out of this morality, which has its source in God. A familiar text may be used truly (if not as it is in Matthew) in this connection: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

Now-a-days there is no practical dispute about the inseparableness of religion and morality. The minister is eternally under the most rigid tests of morality, and woe is the elder or Sunday school superintendent who is under suspicion or conviction of moral irregularity! A man morally bad cannot be a good religionist.

✦ ✦ ✦

But there is serious meditation on this subject by men of strong morality and capable reasoning power. Frankly, they avow that religion does little or nothing in the moral development of the individual or the race. It is too sad and commonplace a fact that the teaching of religion seems to be only remotely related to morality. High pew-holders live in lechery. Women of social heights and churchly prominence give themselves over to a criminal neglect of the necessary and sacred office of mothering the young. All sorts of mercantile, industrial and political crookedness are rampant among men who sit with pious and unblushing demeanor in congregational councils. These things bring to mind the most terrible rebuke ever uttered—that by Jesus against the hypocrites of His day.

Horrible and real, these sins are not the fault of religion, however. They are no sign that religion is unmoral, or immoral. The church is not religion, the ministry is not religion. They are both liable to error. It is true the church is the teacher of religion, and the custodian of religion and morality. This is her business distinctively. But when men criticise, it is very superficial of them to criticise religion for the sins of the organization which has charge of religion and morality. They confuse two very different things. It is as dangerous and unjust to religion to attack it in this spirit, instead of condemning the dogmatic malpractice of the churches, as it is anarchistic to condemn government because the conduct of the government under which we live gives us so much of wrong.

A present-day writer charges the teachers of religion with going not too far but too fast. Before a youth gets stable ideas of right, and learns that God is Right, he is whirled away into a scheme of dogmas by the modern doctrinaire, which, if they do so at all, touch life only at the high places.

Cardinal Newman tells us that when he first became a member of the Roman Catholic church he had difficulty in understanding how morality and religion could so turn their backs to each other. "A feeble old woman," he says, "first genuflects before the Blessed Sacrament and then steals her neighbor's handkerchief." This is not peculiar to any one church.

The world has many men and women who are victims of such "religion." For example, only the past week, a layman, who is deeply interested in the church, and who constantly advocates—sincerely, as I believe—"Seek the Lord Jesus Christ and be saved," used an overdue street car transfer. He had kept it while attending to some business on the transfer corner. I have no doubt the immorality of his act never appealed to him as inconsistent with his religion. How is such a thing possible?

Is it not true that Jesus-olatry is more practiced than Christianity? In other words, do not people place the Savior on a pedestal, as it were, and with vague, unmoral and unintelligent awe behave toward Him like mere idol-worshipers? Is there a general spiritual desire to respond to his beatitude, "Blessed are they that do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled?"

There seems to be only a little sane regard for the growth and triumph of His life, by the most persistent and agonizing struggles with temptations to immorality. Who really feels that He became morally perfect by keeping absolutely in communion with God, who gave Him both the capacity and the spirit of power to work out His perfect goodness?

✦ ✦ ✦

How the business of the church will regain its unquestioned supremacy in the promotion of morality is a simple matter. The only salutary way is to reform the church from within. Her antagonists are not fitted to do the work. Her own candid and humble members are glad the day is gone forever, when the church defied unfavorable comments with more or less cruelty and austerity. They rejoice that they who love her are expected to help her over to greater usefulness.

No anathemas of the church count today unless they proceed from her spirit of righteousness against unrighteousness, her morality against immorality.

At the same time it is the most presumptuous thing for any man or group of men to abandon the historic church, write out their little code of living maxims, and become self-made and self-nurtured ethical culture societies. They do not amount to anything dynamic of real living unless there is within them the feeling of Absolute Morality in the universe. They must be religious, in other words.

It makes no difference what they may name their organization. "God" may be eschewed in their program. They may say vehemently that they are not religious. But religion is not a name, and it does not depart at the say-so of iconoclastic moralists.

Movements in morality which would divest themselves of religion usually belie themselves by being fostered and maintaind by persons of strong religious forebears. The ways of nature declare that all of the resolutions in the universe cannot annihilate the influence of the moral spirit of God. He comes into the blood by heredity. He is in the atmosphere of environment. He is unescapable! A man is guided by religion in spite of his protests and fears. For God is everywhere, and chiefly in human hearts.

Religion and morality are not dependent upon a peculiar kind of church organization, government, and form of worship. They live on something other than systems of belief. They proceed from God, whose spirit grows in man, giving him the feeling, which is not born in human conventions, but out of the spirit of Diety, that there is a propriety in morality.

The question is pertinent, Would not the world be a better world if decency, honesty, truthfulness, chastity, industry, justice, were more and more to be recognized as attributes of God, and His desire for His children? Other, and it may be, deeper things might follow, but in the spirit of Jesus, will men not make the world filled with the religion of morality? For, surely, in one light, religion is the striving of men for the morality of God.

CASUAL GLIMPSES AROUND THE CITY

Notes About People and Events In Which Pittsburghers Are Interested.

The fact that every man's job is a brick in the social structure that, when threatened with displacement, causes a widespread uneasiness in trade, has been instanced pointedly in the hotel registrations of the past week. With the storm cloud of a possible coal strike on the horizon, Western Pennsylvania merchants are chary of laying in stocks of goods that later may become an "elephant on their hands" if the miners' wages stop abruptly. The condition of indecision has communicated itself with the great houses of New York and Chicago, and they have instructed their drummers to keep shy of Pittsburgh and vicinity until the situation clears. On the myriad lines of trade, from shoestrings to ready-made suits, this trade uneasiness has cut deeply into the travelers' list for the week, and the situation has been patent to every hotel man. At the first hint of a strike settlement the drummers are under orders to swoop down on Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania towns, and are waiting for this coup d'etat.

Famous French Journalist.

M. Jacques Futrelle, an editorial writer of the Paris Temps and a well-known essayist of France, passed through Union station last night, returning to New York after studies made in the northwest.

"There is no reason under the sun," said M. Futrelle, "why the American grape growers should not rival the French growers who create from their product the expensive champagne. If the proper patriotism were invoked in favor of your vineyards, after the loving care bestowed on ours by the rulers of France, you would certainly cultivate a taste for a native champagne as good as that the sun-kissed grapes of France furnish. Of course, this tribute is not national on my part, for I am cosmopolitan enough to recognize possibilities whenever I see them."

J. M. Rhodes, a Philadelphia financier, returned yesterday from the Panhandle coking coal lands of West Virginia with a party of six investors. The party will return to Philadelphia today to close the deal for a $300,000 tract of land.

Thomas G. Johnson, a member of the New York stock exchange, arrived late last night from Gotham on a business visit to the Pittsburgh correspondents of his firm. The New York broker declared that the Pittsburgh boom in mining stocks was fully paralleled in New York.

Pittsburghers in New York.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(Special.)—The following Pittsburghers are registered at the New York hotels:

An Accomplished Reality.

In the midst of all the labor and capital disputes the attacks on wealth and the plaints of poverty, it is both reassuring and inspiring to read such a letter as the miners of Butte have sent to Mr. Lawson, in which they say they have steady work, fair wages, friendly relations with their employers, and that their union is too well satisfied with their treatment and condition to take any aggressive step. Content like this, with a square deal on each side, has been considered a desirable deal, but the sensible Butte miners have proved it an accomplished reality.—Baltimore American.

Quiet Observations on Timely Topics

Adversity and Poverty Are Great Civilizing and Developing Forces.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

We are apt to look upon poverty as a more or less dreadful curse. And maybe it is well that we do so regard it, but the time will come when the lack of money will not be called poverty.

Have you ever thought that good fortune, wealth, improvement in labor methods and time-saving devices have all grown out of the common struggle against poverty?

Take your own case. Is it not true that your chief incentive to toil, to improve passing opportunities and to prepare yourself for doing things more successfully and economically was to avoid falling into a state of poverty?

* * *

It is hardly too much to say that if the seekers for the fountain of youth, for the philosopher's stone and for the hidden stores of pirates had been successful we would still be in the dark ages, with darkness more intense and ignorance more dense.

If you are of an observant turn you have noted, no doubt, that those born with silver spoons in their mouths rarely eat well, neither do they thrive morally and socially, but rather tend to physical and social decline and to moral degeneration and spiritual decay.

It hath long been said that necessity is the mother of invention. And we may add, of adventure and enterprise also.

* * *

"To live without trial is to die but half a man," said a philosopher, and he said well, for strength of character must be acquired by wrestling with obstacles.

"A youth born and bred in the midst of luxury," says a writer in Success, "who has always leaned upon others, who has never been obliged to fight his way up to his own loaf, and who has been coddled from his infancy, rarely develops great stamina or staying power. He is like the weak sapling in the forest compared with the giant oak which has fought every inch of its way up from acorn by struggling with storms and tempests. Power is the result of force overcome. The giant is made strong in wrestling with difficulties. It is impossible for one who does not have to struggle and to fight obstacles to develop fiber or stamina."

* * *

The new Rockefeller baby, heir apparent to a billion dollars, if it lives and has luck, is being heralded as a most fortunate child. And we doubt but thousands of fond parents are sighing and crying because their babies are not heirs to such fortune—good fortune, as they say.

Those who have observed people carefully for many years are rather inclined to regard the Rockefeller baby as an unfortunate "kid," and to shake their heads, as much as to say that it is foredoomed to be spoiled.

These philosophers and observers point to the child's grandfather dodging court summonses, hiding here and there, wandering about surrounded by armed guards, trying to sleep in a barricaded house in the midst of grounds swept by fierce searchlights, and living in momentary fear of being harmed by his fellow-men.

Would you live thus for a billion of dollars? Or would you subject your children to the misery of such a life?

* * *

It is practically impossible for a man with millions of dollars to be healthy, happy and home-loving. He is so bent with business cares, with fears and with temptations to destroy his health that he cannot be as happy as his neighbor, who works day by day to earn a living for himself and for his family.

The rich woman is the doctor's best patron, for she is ever out of sorts, being a victim of irrational feeding and unsanitary habits of life. Not only is she forever taking medicine, going to sanitariums and springs, but she is a profitable hospital patient, submitting to operations for this, that and the other thing, all of which are the results of wrong living and unnatural conduct.

And what is the compensation for all of this special suffering and general discomfort?

Is it to flit to the limelight of society for a time and to be known to the world as a rich woman?

* * *

The burdens of poverty, of which we hear so much, are as nothing when compared with the burdens of riches.

For what do you desire to be rich? Is it that you won't have to work, or have to struggle to live, or have to deny yourself luxuries, falsely, so-called?

Idleness, you know, means death—it is death, sure death to every living creature or thing that lapses into it.

Action is life, and effort, struggle and toil tend to develop and improve the creature and make life more desirable.

From which class do we get our great and good men? Is it from the rich, those who inherited riches, or achieved riches? Or is it from the class known as the common people, those who work industriously, struggle manfully and successfully?

Think it over.

As Two Men See the Judgeship.

Taft's Ambition Is to Set on the Supreme Court Bench—Knox Won't Have It.

By L. W. STRAYER.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The popular supposition that the supreme bench of the United States is the summit of every lawyer's ambition, while true in general, has its exceptions. Senator Philander C. Knox is one of those exceptions. When he twice declined the President's offer of an appointment to the supreme court it was with the realization that he was turning aside from an opportunity that comes to but few of the great lawyers of the country. But Senator Knox is not temperamentally inclined toward the bench. He has never had a judicial ambition and probably never will. He would rather be in a position where he is doing things than to be passing upon the doings of others.

With Secretary of War Taft it is different. He has told more than one of his friends that he would rather be on the supreme bench than be president. To him the bench of the highest court of the land is the greatest of earthly achievements, and he would ask for nothing more. If he does not accept the appointment tendered him by the President it will be for other reasons than that he does not wish it. It will be because he does not believe he should relinquish at this time certain tasks that he has in hand. A sense of duty only will prevent him from succeeding Justice Brown, who retires at the end of this term of court.

Salary Was Increased.

The salary of a supreme court justice was raised about three years ago to $12,500 from $10,000, and the chief justice has $500 a year more than the associate justices. Each justice has a private secretary or stenographer, whom the government pays $1,600 a year. After a justice has served two years on the bench and has reached the age of 70 he is privileged to retire on his full salary for the remainder of his life. At present there is but one retired justice, Mr. Shiras of Pittsburgh. He retired about two years ago and was succeeded by Justice Day of Ohio. While it has been argued that this government is not, by far, liberal enough in its pay of the members of the supreme court, they receiving much less than judges of the same rank in England and other countries, yet it will be seen that once a man goes on the supreme bench he is provided for for life. Even in these days of prosperity when large money rewards for ability are common a salary of $12,500 for life is not to be disregarded.

A story is told about Chief Justice Fuller, who carefully guards his dignity and is a stickler for the rules of precedence on all formal occasions. He was going to some suburban place near Washington and upon arriving at the station found he had not a cent of money in his pockets. He walked into the cafe of the St. James hotel and, stepping up to the bar, said to the white-jacketed purveyor of hospitality:

"I am the chief justice of the supreme court and came to the station to go out to ——. But I find I have no money with me. I know I am open to suspicion, but if you would let me have 15 cents I would repay you and would consider it a very great favor."

Everybody in Washington knows the chief justice, either personally or from his photograph, and the bartender was no exception.

"Sure, judge, I'll let you have the money and I'll throw in a drink, too," said he, as he tapped the cash register for the 15 cents. Chief Justice Fuller accepted the loan but declined the drink.

White Fools Lawyers.

It is common report that some of the justices are inclined to doze when the proceedings before the court become monotonous and uninteresting, and on such occasions it is said to be the duty of a page to carelessly bump into the chair of the sleeping jurist and thus without attracting attention make him. Justice White often deceives visitors in the court by closing his eyes and leaning back in his chair apparently taking a quiet nap. But suddenly he opens his eyes and asks some pertinent question of the lawyer who is speaking, thus showing clearly that his mind has been following the argument at every step.

The oldest man on the supreme bench at present is Chief Justice Fuller, who was born February 11, 1833. Reports have been in circulation for some time that he intended to retire, as he has served on the bench since 1888, but Mr. Fuller has shown no inclination to give up his place. The youngest justice is the latest appointment, William R. Day of Ohio. He was born on April 17, 1849.

Three Soldiers on the Bench.

There are three soldiers on the supreme bench, two of whom served in the Union army and one in the confederate army during the civil war. Justice White is the ex-confederate. His published biography does not state what service he saw; it merely says "served in the confederate army." Justice White is from Louisiana, where he was born and raised, and he was serving as United States senator from that state when in 1894 President Cleveland appointed him to the supreme court. Justice Harlan is a Kentuckian and in 1861 he raised the Tenth Kentucky regiment and commanded it, serving under Thomas. In 1863 his name was before the senate for confirmation as a brigadier general, but owing to the death of his father he felt compelled to resign. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes is entitled to be addressed as "Col." Holmes, as he has brevets as major, lieutenant colonel and colonel. On July 10, 1861, he was commissioned first lieutenant of the Twentieth Massachusetts, and today he bears scars that testify to the reality of his service. At the battle of Ball's Bluff he was shot through the breast. At Antietam he got a bullet through the neck, and at Fredericksburg he was shot in the heel.

Justice Brewer is the only member of the court who was not born in this country. His father was a missionary to Turkey and the justice first saw the light of day at Smyrna, Asia Minor. Being born of American parents, although outside the United States, his citizenship was not affected, and he has the same standing as one born inside the territorial limits of this country. Justice Brewer is related to the famous Field family, his mother being a sister of David Dudley, Cyrus W. and Justice Stephen J. Field.

Double Richness.

Noel Barnsdall and John Markham have an interesting condition on their lease on 18-27-12. At 700 feet they encountered a 25-foot pay sand that started off at 25 barrels. This was an unexpected streak. After tubing the well and connecting it up for pumping, the derrick was moved four feet and another hole started. This was drilled to a depth of 1,500 feet, where the regular pay streak was found. This is also productive. So two good paying wells are producing from different sands in the same derrick.—Independence (Kan.) Reporter.

Three States Beat Germany.

Germany's present railway mileage is reported at 34,183. The mileage in the United States is nearing the 220,000 mark. In three states, Illinois, Texas and Pennsylvania, the railway mileage is about equal to that in Germany. The lead would be greatly increased by including the traction lines.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Couple Will Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Voskamp.

Hale and hearty, although both have passed the allotted three-score and ten years, Mr. and Mrs. John Rudolph Voskamp will tomorrow celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Voskamp is 81 years old, while his wife is 70. Both are looking forward to tomorrow's great event with all the expectancy and eagerness they displayed in preparation for the ceremony that made them man and wife 50 years ago.

Mr. Voskamp was born in Bramsche, near Osnibrek, Hanover, Germany, on September 12, 1824, and came to this country when about 20 years of age. Soon after his arrival he started in the grocery business in a small way at 2019 Center avenue, and was very successful. The business grew rapidly until today it is one of the largest and best-known in the hill district. On March 27, 1856, Mr. Voskamp was married to Miss Annie Marie Meyer, his present wife. She was born in Beokhausen, Wittlage, Germany, August 19, 1835, and came to this country in November, 1853.

The couple are members of the First German Lutheran church, Mr. Voskamp being a charter member and an elder. By their union there are four children, all of whom are living. They are John H. Voskamp, ex-select councilman from the Eleventh ward; Mrs. A. F. Leopold, wife of the president of the Leopold Furniture Company of Cleveland; Mrs. George Flath and August H. Voskamp, both of Pittsburgh. There are also five grandchildren.

CUMMINS WRITES CAUSTIC LETTER

Governor of Iowa Accuses Elkins of Undue Friendliness for Railroads.

CONTINUES DENUNCIATION

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

DES MOINES, IOWA, March 25.—Gov. Cummins has mailed to Senator Elkins of West Virginia a reply to the senator's letter, in which he criticised statements made by the governor in speeches to the voters of Iowa regarding his examination before the senate committee on interstate commerce, when it had under consideration the railway rate bill.

The governor says that the senator accused him of falsehood in declaring that his cross-examination was hostile, that an attorney of the railway companies sat at the right of Senator Elkins during the examination, that Senator Elkins appeared to be in communication and sympathy with this attorney and that the attorney handed to Senator Elkins questions to be asked the governor. Gov. Cummins writes the following to Senator Elkins:

If you understand your duties and obligations as chairman of a legislative committee to be similar to those of an advocate, I have no criticism to make of your conduct, except to say that you were on the side of the railways instead of on the side of the people. I have thought, however, that as chairman of such a committee your duties and obligations were more nearly like those of a judge, namely, to hear both sides patiently, without bias or prejudice, and then to decide impartially without fear or favor.

Tried to Shatter Evidence.

You heard patiently, but it was clearly apparent in your cross-examination, that you had decided the case in favor of the railroads, and were determined to shatter my evidence if you could. The cross-examination shows conclusively that you had made up your mind that the proposed authority ought not to be given to the interstate commerce commission, and that the power sought to be given was unnecessary, dangerous and filled with disaster to commerce. It was from beginning to end just such a cross examination as an attorney for the railway companies would have conducted, and it was unseemly for you to assume that attitude.

The scene in your committee room is sharply stamped on my memory, and it is impossible that I can be mistaken about it. Sitting squarely at your right hand, just a trifle behind you, sat a gentleman who, as I was afterward informed, is ex-Senator Faulkner. I inquired what relation he bore to the investigation, and I was told that he was an employe of the railway companies to resist the proposed law. I do not know whether the other senators saw him or not, for their faces were turned toward me, and therefore away from him; but I do know that you saw him, first, because he was so close to you that you could not turn your head without seeing him; second, because you were in conversation with him part of the time; third, because I saw him, with his hand on your shoulder, pass to you questions which you read and then put to me. There can be no mistake about this, for my senses were as alert just then as human faculties can be.

Will Continue Denunciation.

You may believe that an investigation carried on in this manner is in accordance with fairness and decency. I do not. You may continue in your belief if you like, but I shall continue in my denunciation.

It appears to me that if you propose to assail all persons and papers and magazines that have admitted your loyalty to the railroads and questioned your fidelity to the people, you should give some attention to the attacks that come from points nearer Washington than Iowa.

The truth is, senator, that you have fairly established the reputation of standing for the railroads in the United States senate. It is most unfortunate that any senator should acquire such a reputation among the people of the country. It is in the highest degree important that the body of which you are a member shall enjoy the fullest public confidence. The gravest problems which confronts us are those which relate to the regulation and restriction of corporate power. These problems will not be successfully solved by those whose lives have been so molded by corporate thought and corporate influence that they instinctively turn to corporation officers and managers for information and guidance. It is with profound regret that I have condemned your course, but my regret disappears and another feeling takes its place when I observe that you are not only persisting in your indefensible attitude, but are endeavoring to reach over a thousand miles of space and advise the Republican voters of Iowa how to select a governor. The burden is too heavy for you; you cannot lift it. The task is too great for you; you cannot accomplish it.

MR. GRIMES TELLS WHERE HE STANDS

As a Candidate for the Nomination for District Attorney, He Announces His Platform.

RESTS HIS CASE WITH PEOPLE

W. D. Grimes is a candidate for the Republican nomination for district attorney. He is one of District Attorney Stuart's assistants. In making public his candidacy, Mr. Grimes makes the following statement outlining the policy he will pursue if elected:

As a Republican I desire to announce that I am a candidate for the office of district attorney and place myself before the Republican voters of Allegheny county for nomination at the primary election.

I have a sublime faith and trust in American manhood, in the Republican party and in the fair, square and open methods of securing party supremacy as represented and advocated by President Roosevelt. Therefore I go direct to the people for nomination to an office which peculiarly belongs to them.

The office of district attorney is one of the most powerful that belongs to our system of government, its influence upon the conditions of a community, political, social and moral, is of the utmost importance. In addition to the conduct of criminal cases to the number of 5,000 and upward in this community every year, which are instituted by private prosecutors, it is important to understand what appears to be not generally known even to the profession; that the district attorney has a vast reserve power in instituting proceedings and investigations in behalf of the public interest on occasions of great public concern. The inquisitorial power of a grand jury upon matters of great public moment is one that has perhaps not been exercised in this county during the present generation.

A great moral awakening has occurred during recent years all over the United States. Charges of bribery of public servants, grafting, jury fixing, perjury and subornating witnesses, violation of the election laws, corporate oppressions and other acts and offenses of this most immoral nature were formerly received with silence and indifference. The state of the public mind now requires that these questions when charged be investigated. The reluctance of private prosecutors to commence criminal prosecutions is as strong now as ever, for various reasons. A district attorney with an adequate conception of his powers and a full sense of his responsibility in this behalf is a prime necessity in the institution of prosecutions and the drawing of technical criminal pleadings to the trial of the most difficult cases in the criminal courts. In the line of my duties I have studied and know the office from beginning to end.

I promise and obligate myself, in the event of my nomination and election, to administer the office without fear or favor and without any desire of gain or self-seeking. To enforce all the laws as they exist. To conduct prosecutions of persons charged with crime vigorously and to the best of my ability, and with a due regard to the rights of the defendant as well as the prosecutor. To set the machinery of the law in motion for the investigation of matters of great public concern, when such arise, and institute prosecutions when the same would lead to a suspicion of a violation of the law, and for that purpose would appoint and surround myself with an honest staff of attorneys and county detectives in order that the business of the office and the courts would be administered in a manner that would meet with the approval of the members of the bar and of the litigants having business in the criminal courts.

With due modesty I believe that my age, experience, training, study and interest in this branch of the public service warrant me in becoming a candidate at this time, and that with the support and encouragement of the bench and bar, both of which have a special interest in this office, and with the active assistance of many of the plain people, to whom the office belongs and to whom only I appeal, I feel confident of the result.

DR. BELL'S
Pine-Tar-Honey

The new and the true, is nature's most natural remedy, improved by science to a pleasant, permanent, positive cure for coughs, colds and all inflamed surfaces of the Lungs and Bronchial Tubes. The sore, weary, cough-worn Lungs are exhilirated; the microbe-bearing mucus is cut out; the cause of that tickling is removed, and the inflamed membranes are healed and soothed so that there is no inclination to cough.

Over 4,000,000 bottles were sold during 1904 on an absolute guarantee. The strongest evidence of the merits of a proprietary medicine is the opinion of the consumer. Here's the record: Over Two Million Bottles in 1902. Over Three Million Bottles in 1903. Over Four Million Bottles in 1904. This evidences the opinion of the consumer regarding the merits of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey, best cough medicine on the market.

SILAS STRONG
EMPEROR OF THE WOODS
By
IRVING BACHELLER

The chief figure is an Adirondack guide, a philosopher of the woods, who expresses himself always with laconic brevity and characteristic humor. His shy, silent courting of the woman who has waited long years for him to speak is an original and delicately tender contribution to the literature of wooing; and the scenes in which two small children and a real dog appear are rich in humor. There is a delightful woodland maiden whose romance breathes of the mountain air. The whole novel is redolent of the woods in Spring.

LABOR TEMPLE IN PITTSBURGH

Local Unionists to Incorporate Company to Erect $100,000 Building.

QUARTERS FOR ALL BODIES

The labor organizations of the Pittsburgh district are to erect a $100,000 temple. The primary steps to this end were taken yesterday at a special meeting of the delegates of the various labor organizations, at 416 Wood street. There were 211 delegates present and the erection of a labor temple was assured. One hundred and thirty-five unions and 20 crafts were represented.

Labor organizations of this district pay out $40,000 annually for rent. It is the intention of the organization to incorporate a company of $100,000 capital, which is to be divided into 4,000 shares at $25 a share. These shares are to be sold to the members of organized labor. No organization will be allowed to buy more than 500 shares.

It is the intention to erect a four-story building, costing $75,000, and $25,000 is to be expended for a site. The dimensions of the building will be 100x150 feet. The first floor will be devoted to store rooms. The second floor will be utilized as offices and committee rooms, with a library and free baths attached. On the third floor will be lodge rooms, each with a seating capacity from 100 to 300. On the fourth floor will be a large auditorium with a seating capacity of 3,500.

At the meeting yesterday a temporary organization was formed. James Quigg of the bricklayers, was elected temporary president, and Frank Smith temporary secretary. A committee of 10 appointed to draft by-laws, composed of Simon Burns, K. of L. No. 300; John Fernau, president of the United Labor league; P. T. Pierce, Railroad Trainmen; John Barclay, painters; J. J. Toole, structural builders trade; J. J. Carey, barbers; J. J. White, Painters District council; C. C. Douglass, president of Iron City council; M. S. Flaherty, structural iron workers, and W. L. Bowers, paperhangers. An executive committee of 10 will be appointed this week by President Quigg.

At the next meeting, which will be held April 8 at 416 Wood street, a permanent organization will be formed. Attorney James B. Drew has been employed to secure a charter for the labor temple corporation. Secretary Smith said:

"There are thousands of workingmen in this city and they should have some building for the exclusive use of organized labor. At a low estimate, about $40,000 is paid out annually for rent by the labor organizations. If this sum is paid into the labor temple treasury within four years the cost of a temple will have been met."

Particular stress was laid at the meeting yesterday on the success the labor unions of Toronto, Canada, have met with in erecting a similar building, which paid 18 per cent on the investment last year.

MRS. C. L. MAGEE LEADING ROME SOCIETY THIS YEAR

Former Pittsburgh Woman Said to Have Given Best Ball of the Season.

In last Saturday's issue of Town and Country, in connection with its report of the engagement of Miss Louise Magee of this city to a nobleman who bears one of the oldest and proudest titles in all Europe, Baron de Riedenau, first secretary of the Austrian embassy at Rome, is related how after the death of Senator C. L. Magee, the uncle of Miss Louise, Mrs. Magee found her beautiful home, "The Maples," so full of sad memories that she decided to go abroad for an indefinite stay. She found Rome very much to her liking and one day came home, dismantled her house, and two huge vans backing up to the side door of her residence and all the things she most loved and prized, gifts from her husband, china, rugs and furniture, were carefully taken away. Some weeks later these very same vans without their contents having been disturbed in any way, backed up to the door of the new home in Rome, Villa Eleanora, and Mrs. Magee has lived there ever since, surrounded by the belongings that made her home here so beautiful. Her house is always full of guests, and these just now include Mrs. James Neale, her daughter, Miss Louise Magee and Mrs. Stewart, all of Pittsburgh.

Continuing Town and Country says:

Mrs. Magee is very much of a society leader over there in Rome this year, her magnificent residence in the Via Bomarzo lending itself well to large entertainments. At all of these entertainments, she is assisted by Miss Magee. It is said that this year Mrs. Magee gave the best ball of the season. Everybody from Mimi Pecci, Pope Leo the Thirteenth's grandniece, to Count Pietromarch, who leads cotillions, was present. The guests also included all the available Americans in the country. It is said that except for the presence of many of the Roman nobility, the ball was characteristically American, the dances were American, the presents were such as would be given in New York, and the supper at small tables recalled Fifth avenue. It was all very beautiful. Mrs. Magee has a favorite nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Darr, who spend each winter at the Hotel St. Regis, New York, and who have a country place near Newport where they go in the summer. The Darrs spent part of last year with Mrs. Magee in Rome.

Missionary Society to Meet.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of Pittsburgh and Allegheny will be held next Friday in the Sixth Presbyterian church, Forbes street and Murry Hill avenue. The meeting will open at 10:30 a. m. with devotional exercises, led by Mrs. John A. Bell, president of the society. The reports of the secretaries will be read and Mrs. Frank Chalfant of China will make an address at the morning session. In the afternoon Mrs. C. N. Thoepel, president of the Philadelphia board, will speak.

WILL REBUILD BOAT.

Charley Brown Goes to the Marine Ways at Elizabeth.

The towboat Charley Brown of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, sunk in the Monongahela river near Braddock two weeks ago last Friday, was taken to the marine ways at Elizabeth yesterday for overhauling. The cabin of the boat was wrecked and other serious damage done. The boat will be put into commission again as soon as she is made seaworthy.

The towboat Joseph B. Williams tied up at Sewickley yesterday with a large tow of empties from Louisville. These will be brought into the harbor today or tomorrow if the water is sufficiently deep to permit of navigation.

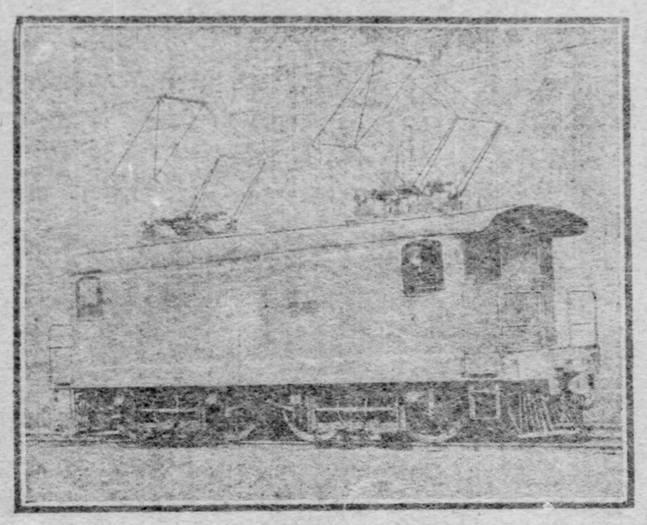
ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVE EXPECTED TO ACCOMPLISH GREAT RESULTS



78-Ton Electric Locomotive, 400-h. p., Able to Pull a 250-Ton Train 70 Miles an Hour.

This illustration shows the first of 25 electric locomotives which the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad is about to operate on its main line between New York and Boston. The machine was finished yesterday and turned out of the shops of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at East Pittsburgh, ready for shipment. The machine marks an epoch in the development of electric railroading because it represents characteristics of construction only recently practically perfected. The chief difference between this engine and older types of electric locomotives, is that it is operated by the alternating electric current, single phase system.

The locomotive weighs 78 tons, is equipped with four 400-horse power electric motors, and is considerable more powerful than the average steam locomotive. It will be able to pull trains weighing 250 tons at a speed of 70 miles an hour. Electrical engineers from all over the world are watching the operation of these locomotives with the utmost interest, because it is claimed that its success will mean a great step in advance toward the superseding of steam by electricity on main line railroads.

The Death Roll

William John Prenter.

William John Prenter, aged 64, of 1624 Garfield avenue, Allegheny, died Saturday at the Allegheny General hospital. He was taken to the institution two weeks ago for treatment for appendicitis. He was born on a farm near Dromore, County Down, Ireland, and came to Pittsburgh in 1850, where he had been in active business since. In 1875 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Thompson, daughter of John Thompson, formerly a steamship agent in this city. He leaves his widow and two sons, John T. and Frank T. Prenter. He also leaves one sister and three brothers, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Prenter, Dublin; Martin Prenter, secretary and general manager of the Monongahela Water Company, and James Prenter, who lives on the old farm, and one sister, Mrs. James McCrae, who also lives in Dromore, Ireland. Shortly after coming to this city, Mr. Prenter entered the carpet business and for nearly 25 years was connected with the firm of Oliver McClintock & Co. During the early years of his residence here he was a member of the Eighth Street Reformed Presbyterian church, but for many years he was a member and ruling elder in the Third United Presbyterian church, where the funeral services will be conducted this afternoon by the Rev. Dr. McCorory, the pastor of the church, who will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. McClurkin of the Shadyside U. P. church. The pallbearers will be Charles P. Dean, Oliver McClintock, J. A. Read, Joseph Walker, William L. Taylor, W. H. Young, Frank Coursey and H. S. Oliver, all of whom have been closely associated with the deceased for many years, both in business and church life.

Funeral of Capt. Siviter.

Capt. Francis Pierpont Siviter, Twenty-eighth Infantry U. S. A., who died at the Army General hospital in Washington, D. C., Saturday evening will be laid to rest with military honors at Arlington cemetery this afternoon. The services will be held at Lee's undertaking rooms on Pennsylvania avenue at 2 p. m., in charge of Chaplain Robinson, retired. The body, carried upon the caisson of a gun, will be escorted to the aqueduct bridge at Georgetown by a company of engineers and the engineer band from the Washington barracks. There it will be met by an escort of cavalry from Fort Meyer, who will conduct it to the cemetery. The services at the grave will be in charge of Chaplain Pierce of Fort Meyer. One of the honorary pallbearers will be Gen. Chambers McKibben, retired, on whose staff Capt. Siviter served for a time in the Philippines. The following persons from Pittsburgh will be present at the funeral: The widow of the deceased, and her mother, Mrs. D. R. Breed; William H. Siviter and Thomas Siviter, brothers; Mrs. J. H. Kates, a sister, and F. W. Pierpont.

Mrs. Caroline Gwynn.

Mrs. Caroline Gwynn of West Harwood street, Sheraden, who died suddenly in the Allegheny market house on Saturday, was born in Allerton Commons, Gloucestershire, England, 71 years ago, and following her marriage to John Gwynn, came to the United States in 1882. She and her husband settled first in Mansfield, now Carnegie, but in 1888 removed to Sheraden. Mrs. Gwynn was a member of the Baptist church. She leaves, besides her husband, the following children: John, Carnegie; Arthur G., and Martin R., Sheraden; Mrs. Aquilla Short, Mifflin township. She also leaves six grandchildren, and in England two sisters.

Frederick Korbe.

Frederick Korbe, aged 68, died yesterday at his home in Laketon avenue, Wilkinsburg. He was born in Bavaria, Germany, and came to this country in 1853, settling on the South Side, where for 20 years he was engaged in the saddlery business. He removed to Wilkinsburg 15 years ago. He was a member of the First German Evangelical church, South Side, and is survived by his widow and eight children. Four brothers and sisters live in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Rose Connelly.

Mrs. Rose Connelly, aged 58, died suddenly at her late residence, 357 Soho street, on Friday night. She was born in Staffordshire, England, and came to America when a child. She had lived in Soho for over 30 years. She is survived by her husband, five sons and four daughters. Solemn high mass of requiem will be held at St. Brigid's church at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning and the interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

Attorney General U. X. Gunter Jr.

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 25.—U. X. Gunter, Jr., attorney general of South Carolina, died today at his father's home in Batesburg, this state, after an illness of almost a year. Mr. Gunter was private secretary to Gov. John Gary Evans in 1894, served a term as assistant attorney general and was twice elected attorney general. For years Mr. Gunter was secretary of the Democratic state executive committee.

Obituary Notes.

YORK, PA., March 25.—(Special.)—The Hon. Francis Cole, aged 79, a leading Democratic politician of Arndtsville, is dead. He was born in Germany and was brought to this country when a child. He served several terms in the state legislature. He is survived by his widow and seven children.

Mrs. Isaac Osborn, aged 77, of Gilman, Ia., died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. R. Cooper, in Pearl street, McKeesport, where she was visiting. Mrs. Osborn formerly lived in McKeesport, but removed to the west 12 years ago. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. William Hardesty, both of McKeesport, and one brother, Eli Cook, also of that city.

Mrs. Annie Mathews, a widow, aged 73, died of old age and exhaustion yesterday morning at the home of Jacob Willheimer, 3 Franklin alley, Allegheny. She had no home and had been cared for by Willheimer since last September.

RIVALS WITH REVOLVERS.

Police Officials Think They Are Clever Hitting Marks, and Will Compete for Local Championship.

Police Inspector Robinson and Capt. Thomas McCabe have taken up the challenge to a revolver match issued by Superintendent of Police Werner and his assistant, E. J. Kennelly. The two latter have proposed to shoot a match with any superintendent and assistant superintendent in the country. Robinson and McCabe, however, want to get in on the match, and rather than see them go begging for a contest have challenged Werner and Kennelly.

They are ready to shoot any two-man team, bar none, so long as the service pistol used by the police is the weapon chosen. It is said the challenge of Werner and Kennelly has already been taken cognizance of by Police Lieutenant Hickman of Kansas City, Mo., who holds the police championship of the country.

Holds Two Suspects.

Henry Golden and Edward Grimes were held at Central station yesterday for further investigation, being suspected of robbing certain houses on First and Second avenues, of clothing, jewelry and furs.

FENDERS TOO FAR FROM THE TRACKS

Lives Might Be Saved If They Adjusted Themselves to Inequalities of Streets.

RESULTS OF MEASUREMENTS

The death of Miss Terheyden under the trucks of a traction car has suggested that the fender used on the lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Company does not fully serve the purpose for which it is intended—to save life and limb.

In other cities fenders are used that automatically adjust themselves to the inequalities of the streets, keeping within an inch or so of the rails, thus scooping up and saving persons who have fallen in front of the car. The Pittsburgh fender is straight instead of pocket-shape and therefore of necessity must be kept at such a height above the rails that it passes over a recumbent person, leaving the body reach the wheels of the car.

For the purpose of investigation and comparison a Gazette reporter, armed with a two-foot rule, took his stand at several street corners yesterday and measured the distance between the track and the fender. In very few cases, and then only with the big double-truck cars, was the fender less than eight inches above the tracks, and in no case less than seven inches. The measurements follow:

Wood street at Fifth avenue—Atwood street car No. 22, 10½ inches above the rail; Swissvale car No. 483, 11½ inches; Charleroi car No. 3268 (double truck), 10 inches; Liberty avenue and Highland park car No. 518, eight inches; Carrick car No. 252, 12 inches; North Highland car No. 3402, 10½ inches; Carrick car No. 373, 12 inches; Larimer car No. 3478 (double truck), 7½ inches; Liberty and St. Clair car No. 481, 12 inches; Carrick car No. 413, 13 inches; North Highland car No. 3414, 11 inches.

Fifth avenue at Wood street—West Wilkinsburg car No. 3270, 10½ inches; Shady avenue car No. 3307, 12½ inches; Fifth avenue and Highland car No. 3282, 13 inches; Bloomfield car No. 543, 9½ inches; Homestead and McKeesport car No. 513, 14 inches; Shady avenue car No. 3290, 12 inches; West Wilkinsburg car No. 3282, 8½ inches; Center and Negley car No. 3403, 9 inches, and Fifth and Highland car No. 3308, 9½ inches.

Liberty street at Fifth street—McKees Rocks car No. 605, 10 inches; Elliott and Sheraden car No. 781, 17 inches; Mt. Washington car No. 630, 15 inches.

Seventh street at Penn avenue—Brighton road car, 13 inches; Highland park and Butler street car No. 45, 13 inches.

Liberty street at Seventh street—Perrysville avenue car No. 549, 18 inches.

Find Youth In Clothes Locker.

Willie Price, aged 14, was found hidden in a clothes locker in the gymnasium at Munhall yesterday, after a six-weeks' search for him and in the afternoon he was brought to the county jail. His father and a probation officer say he is incorrigible. G. W. Giles, justice of the peace of Munhall, sent him to jail to be disposed of by the juvenile court.

SENTIMENT THE KEYNOTE IN WALL STREET MARKET

Advance in Prices Largely Due to Covering of Short Interests—Coal Dispute and Algeciras Still Influencing Factors.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 25.—Stocks were irregular during Wall street's business week. Prices declined at the outset, underwent some improvement during the mid-interval and bolted upon the betterment at the close. With the cessation of urgent and effective liquidation, and upon the variable improvement which ensued, sentiment assumed a more hopeful tone. It is doubtful, however, if this reflected anything more important than the opinion of professional Wall street itself.

There is something in market psychology that imparts cheerfulness upon any upserving in prices, however, that betterment may have originated. So far as the market of the last week is concerned, any change in it seemed rather one of sentiment than of condition, arising more from a price advance, due to the recovering purchases of the trading short interests, than to any public participation or any change in, or determination of fundamental and influencing factors.

So far as news itself was concerned there was really nothing decisive in the features that have been held chiefly responsible for the recent market tendencies. The controversy between the miners and operators in the bituminous and anthracite coal fields, the reported settlement of which reinforced by manipulative operations in Reading stock, which gave the first upward impetus to the market, still continues undetermined. The same condition prevails also over the Moroccan situation, at the Algeciras conference, which is held to be the chief unsettling feature of the European security and money markets.

If there was any change in other matters having an important bearing upon public sentiment or general conditions, it was not made apparent. This was as true of the group of factors favorable to the market as those calculated to adversely influence it. The sweeping radicalism of the country and the hostility on the part of federal authorities and state legislatures appeared unabated, the hesitancy in investment circles, growing out of the probability of changes in life insurance investment laws continued. Any relaxation in money either at home or abroad was sufficiently well defined to lead anyone to predict that a continuel interval of real ease had opened up.

Railroad earnings continue aboundingly favorable and afford a real basis for optimism, but the trade reports again appeared mixed, with dullness still reported in some of the basic forms of iron and steel, with collections reported as less satisfactory than they were in some sections of the country and with the unmistakable evidence of less active general business disclosed by decreased bank clearings. The total of the bank clearances of the country for the week fell not only below the total of the preceding week, but also below the corresponding week a year ago, constituting in fact the smallest volume of clearances of any week since last September.

There is, to be sure, nothing definitely conclusive as to impending industrial change in any of the factors and features above mentioned. The labor situation in the coal fields may be satisfactorily settled, the Moroccan controversy adjusted, a revulsion of sentiment may serve as a counter check to radicalism and antagonism to corporations, the influence of the life insurance scandal may pass away and the investment community may cast off the effects of the features that disturb sentiment and adjust its affairs to changed industrial laws. Business is like as not to be in the condition of interregnum, experiencing the normal lull between seasons, rather than at the inception of a period of definite contraction.

The outcome of the harvests will determine much for the future. Probably if the fact could be determined it is upon that and the influence that the crops will exert upon the money market, and through them on general business and financial enterprise, that the markets appear to be halting. According to the best accounts the conditions of winter wheat is promising, particularly in the southwest, where sufficient snow covering at a timely season has come, to draw the frost out of the earth, furnishing the protection needed to the seed during the separation, and furnishing the moisture necessary for germination. But even with this promising start, there has scarcely been sufficient progress yet to determine the question of the winter sown crops, and no man can speak with definite assurance at this time of the final outcome.

It really seems, when one considers all the factors yet undetermined in the situation, that such recovery as the stock market experienced during the week was nothing more important than a changing tone of a purely professional market, and one not apt to be long continued, unless some more definite information than is now at hand develops in connection with the future of the harvests, the money and the industrial situation.

Even then what influence may be exerted by sentimental considerations, such as the scandals in high places, the radicalism, socialistic tendencies, hostility to corporations and the like, remain to be seen. In the price decline Wall street may have discounted their influence entirely, but whether the country has discounted them, and whether they are not now one of the reasons for a certain indefiniteness in industrial quarters, remains to be seen.

That Wall street is witnessing the inception of a campaign to change and favorably impress sentiment is unmistakable. This is the feature of a machine-made market, such as the street has fallen upon of late, and is indicated in many ways, such as the churning of stocks, the revival of pool and clique operations, the solemn warning issued to bear traders through the medium of tipsters in the public press and by "literature" put forth by the "commission houses," which are doing the "three and a shilling" business or who, in other words, are masquerading as commission brokers, though their offices are devoid of customers and their orders come in over the private wires or private telephones of some one or other of the professional manipulators, originating not with the public at all, but with the "gang" that have started in to repeat some of their pleasant performances at the public's expense.

All this manipulation may be very well, and it succeeds often enough, but the question of ultimate success or failure will depend on something more important than the mere process of manipulation, or the mere forcing of the short interests to cover. Prices are lower than they were, some stocks are lower than others, but prices are not cheap at the present time, if gauged by the prevailing rate of money, the income yield or the carrying charges that brokers are exacting of their customers.

What the prevailing rates of money are doing for the bond business are well known. Bonds have practically become unsalable again, as they were in the period of "undigested securities," and it is as largery a matter of money as the other causes that has put the estoppage on business.

BRITISH FINANCIERS LOOK FOR GOOD YEAR

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

(Copyright, 1906, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, March 25.—There are probably few who could be persuaded that the stock exchange financial year of 1905-06, which closed yesterday, had closed more profitable than the previous year or two, but there are not a few happy individuals in the city who will affirm that it is so and who are looking to the new financial year of 1906-07, which begins on Monday, with cheerfulness.

But with how many is it otherwise? And they are the majority. There are many who have not made a single bargain of any kind for many weeks and are still waiting. This may be said to have been the general situation all through the week.

Business was very quiet, indeed. In fact, it was only on Friday that anything like a stir took place, and then the market opened somewhat strong because it was understood that a complete settlement of Moroccan affairs had been arrived at. Then came another shock with the circulation of a report, on the authority of a Paris paper, that Emperor Francis Joseph was dead.

Here was the explanation, said certain shrewd individuals in the city, of the Moroccan settlement. Germany's interests in Austria were of much greater importance to her and so she had settled up with France. But the markets resumed their aspect of the earlier part of the day on the denial of the report.

But if, on the whole, the week ended with a slightly firmer tone than a week ago, the situation remains practically the same, for operators will not commit themselves until the international outlook is cleared by a settlement at Algeciras, and the stagnation caused by the dragging out of this confidence has been heightened by uncertainty respecting South Africa.

On change an exceedingly pessimistic view is taken of the government's South African policy. There are some—but they would seem to be in the minority—who do not believe that any government would do aught that might result in damaging the commercial interests of any colony.

American rails have given way to some extent, owing to prolonged suspense as to the labor dispute in the coal industry, but Canadians have resisted the depression in Americans fairly well. Canadian Pacifics are ⅞ higher in price than they were last week. Grand Trunk and ordinary preference stocks show advances ranging from 3-16 to ⅜.

In the Oil Fields

Field developments were a little more interesting during the past week than has been experienced for some time previous. Several important discoveries were made in the lower southwest fields and old Butler county came to the front with another surprise.

Just at present the new Keener sand pool in Ellsworth district, Tyler county, is the stellar attraction in the lower southwest fields. Recent developments in that district have been very gratifying and have done much to confirm the opinion that a pool of some dimensions awaits development. The first well drilled in this territory was completed about a month ago by the Southern Oil Company, the oil producing branch of the Pittsburgh Oil and Gas Company, and was something of a gusher. When drilled into the second pay it produced at the rate of 40 barrels an hour and is still holding up at about 200 barrels a day. This test is on the R. A. Workman farm. During the week just closed the same company drilled in a second test on the same farm. The well just drilled into the first pay on Wednesday and it started to flow at the rate of 30 barrels an hour. On Thursday it was drilled a little deeper and got a second pay and its production at once increased to 45 barrels an hour.

North of this well, on the J. M. Martin farm, the Trees Oil Company & Benedum drilled in a test and secured a good producer. To the east, on the M. L. Workman farm, the Lincoln Oil Company has a good producer that is holding at 10 barrels an hour since it was shot. The new pool now has four good producing wells, within a small area, and do not furnish much information as to the probable dimensions of the pool. The staying qualities of the first wells completed lead to the conclusion that there must be considerable producing territory back of the wells.

Holders of territory are losing no time in starting new work in this locality. With new conditions and the bad roads will prove a hindrance to rapid development of the pool. The oil is encountered in the Keener formation and the expense of drilling is not excessive. There are some 8 or 10 wells drilling and starting in the pool, and this number will be doubled when the roads are in a better condition.

In the deep sand districts all of the completions came in light and will be no incentive to increase development work. For months there has been a decline of development work in these districts and now that the gas companies are letting up, the decline will be more marked.

Aside from the discovery of small pools West Virginia no longer holds out inducements for a continuance of operations. It is also quite certain that no increase in the runs can be found to offset the decline in production of the old fields. That these conditions exist and are recognized by experienced operators is evidenced by the number of operators who have quits recently turned their attention to the western fields.

Among Pittsburgh operators one hears more gossip and a greater number of inquiries for the latest information from the Casey field in Illinois, than the lower southwest, southeastern Ohio or the local fields. While many are still developing their holdings in the sections named, they are not taking any chances on being left out if the Illinois field should come up to expectations. With the exception of the Ohio Oil Company, it is safe statement to say that Pittsburgh operators hold a greater acreage in the Illinois field than all others combined. In Clark and Crawford counties most of the territory has been taken up and for some very high bonus has been paid, which is an evidence that experienced operators have confidence in its future.

It was reported during the week that one company, located in Pittsburgh, holding leases on 35,000 acres in Crawofrd and Clark counties, with production in both, besides owning a valuable gas plant, had been approached by a syndicate of Chicago and St. Louis capitalists and asked to give an option on its holdings. While the option price is not given, it is understood that it runs well up into six figures.

In southeastern Ohio the discoveries of the past week were common place. With one exception all of the completions were light. The single exception was the Pure Oil Company's No. 4 on the J. Kindelberger farm, located in the south extension of the Beres grit development, at Woodsfield, Monroe county. This well when drilled through the sand found more pay—28 feet—than any other well in the field. Like all other wells in that district it was given a shot as soon as drilled through the sand and responded by producing 250 barrels the ensuing 24 hours. Some time since attention was attracted to Belle Valley in Noble county, by the completion of several good producers in the Beres grit. Considerable new work was isarted, but the late wells came in light or dry till last week when McKee & Co. got a good well on the Willey farm. The well produced 60 barrels the first 24 hours after it was shot.

Old Butler county, so long regarded as a "has been," got to the front again last week with a gusher. Within the past two months the old banner county has made several bids for recognition. None of its new discoveries attract any attention aside from the local talent. The latest strike to stir up a commotion up that way is located on the Rose farm, in the old Hundred-foot district, near Petersville. Fifteen years ago the Hundred-foot field was the most active field in all southwest, and had much to do with enticing operators from the Bradford field. Some very large wells were found in the district, the late William Gukert and Major John Steel drilled a well on the Humphrey farm that had an initial production of 200 barrels an hour.

The strike to recall attention to the old field is located last outside of the borough of Connoquenessing-Petersville—and is credited with drilling itself in last Wednesday and starting to flow at the rate of 45 barrels an hour.

The oil differs in color from that found generally in the 100-foot formation and for that reason the well is thought to be of the freak order. Be that as it may the Butlerite is not losing any time in starting new work. New rigs are building in the vicinity and in all 15 locations for new wells have been made.

TEN POINTS ADVANCE SHOWN IN ALL SUGARS

Onions Are Stiffer, but Market on Other Staples Is Practically Unchanged.

In the produce market Saturday strawberries, cucumbers and other early vegetables declined, getting weaker all the time. Onions took a brace as shown by an advance of 25 cents a barrel. Green onions were weak and decquoted lower. Cranberries, which are getting scarce, are stiffer, and will soon be in the class of the luxuries.

In sympathy with the New York market, the several brands of sugars took a stiffer tone and advanced 10 cents during the day. This was made necessary by the advance in the east put on by the refiners.

Canned goods remain firm, and no changes are looked for until Tuesday. The demand is very good and the winter weather has stimulated trade rather than depressed it.

HAY AND GRAIN.
Receipts.

Receipts bulletined yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 18 cars hay, 10 cars oats, 8 cars feed, 2 cars corn; Baltimore & Ohio, 2 cars oats, 1 car feed, 1 car hay; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 3 cars hay.

The market continues active with a strong demand, but receipts are limited. Higher prices are expected. The local market is still lower than other markets. Every indication points to a further advance.

Goldfield! Goldfield!
One-half of the memberships in the
PITTSBURGH GOLDFIELD NEVADA COMPANY
Sold in two weeks, and why? Because no better proposition has been offered to Western Pennsylvania people. The memberships are being taken up by Pittsburgh and Oil country people.
It will be a truly Home Company, managed and controlled by Our Own Home People. Read the names of the claims—"Ruby," "Morning Star," "Sunset" and "Never Sweat." "Never Sweat!" That sounds good. Get in on this proposition and "Never Sweat" any more.

Another Success
When we put out Manhattan Chipmunk at 27½c we strongly advised its purchase. You can now buy some at 50c per share. It will go higher and purchasers at this price will make money. Manhattan Eastern at 15c is the best located low priced prospect in the camp today. At Tonopah we are confident of the ultimate success of Tonopah Home. Call and see our maps and specimens of ore from the various mines. At Goldfield we have a limited amount of Sandstorm Extension to offer at 12c per share, net. At this price it is a purchase.

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

Author of "THE MYSTERY OF ORCIVAL," "FILE NO. 113," Etc.

Jacques shuddered. "Ah! it is for her sake first of all that I ought to make an end of it," he fiercely replied. "Poor Denise! Certainly she would grieve terribly when she heard of my death. But she is not 20 yet. My memory would soon fade from her heart; and as the weeks grew to months, and the months to years, she would find comfort. 'To live' is 'to forget.'"

"You cannot really believe what you are saying," interrupted M. Folgat. "You know very well that she—she would never forget you!"

Tears stood in the prisoner's eyes. "You are right," he murmured. "If I struck myself I should strike her also. But what would life be after condemnation? Can you imagine what her sensations would be, if day after day she had to say to herself, 'The only man I love upon earth is at the galleys mingling with the lowest of criminals, disgraced for life, dishonored!' Ah! death would be a thousand times preferable."

"Jacques M. de Boiscoran, do you forget that you have given me your word of honor?"

"The proof that I have not forgotten is that you see me here. But, never mind, the day is not far off when you will see me so wretched that you yourself will be the first to put a weapon in my hands."

The young advocate was one of those men whom difficulties only excite and stimulate, instead of discourage. He had already somewhat recovered from the first great shock, and accordingly replied, "Before you throw down your hand, wait, at least till the game is lost. You are not sentenced yet. Far from it! You are innocent, and divine justice corrects the blunders of earthly justice. Who knows that the Count de Claudieuse will really give evidence? Perhaps at this very moment he is already dead!"

Jacques turned deadly pale. "Ah! don't say that!" he exclaimed.

"The fatal thought has already occurred to me, and yet I trust it is not so, for then I should really be responsible for his death. When I woke up, all my anxiety was for him, and I thought of getting Blangin to make inquiries; but I did not dare do so." M. Folgat fully shared the prisoner's anxiety. "We cannot remain in this uncertainty," he said. "We can do nothing as long as we do not know the count's fate, for on his fate our own depends. Allow me to leave you now. I will let you know as soon as I hear anything positive. And, above all, keep up your courage, whatever may happen."

The young advocate was sure of obtaining reliable information at Dr. Seignebos' house. He hastened there; and as soon as he entered, the physician called out:

"Ah, you have come at last! I gave up 20 of my worst patients to see you, and you keep me waiting for hours. Still I was sure you would come. What happened last night at the Count de Claudieuse's house?"

"Then you know——"

"I know nothing. I have seen the results; but I do not know the cause. The result was this: last night about 11 o'clock, I had just gone to bed, tired to death, when, all of a sudden, somebody rings at my bell as if he were determined to break it. I do not like people to perform so violently at my door; and I was getting up to let the man know my mind, when the Count de Claudieuse's servant rushed in, pushing my own servant unceremoniously aside, and called to me to come instantly, as his master had just died."

"Good heaven!"

"That is what he said, and my surprise was infinite, for although I knew the count was very ill, I did not think he was so near death."

"Then he is really dead?"

"Not at all. But if you interrupt me continually, I shall never be able to tell you." And taking off his spectacles, wiping them, and putting them on again, the doctor continued: "I dressed at once, and in a few minutes I was at the house. They asked me to go into the sittingroom down stairs. There, to my great amazement, I found the Count de Claudieuse lying on a sofa. He was pale and stiff, his features fearfully distorted, and on the forehead I found a slight wound, from which a thread of blood was trickling. Upon my word, I thought it was all over."

"And the countess?"

"The countess was kneeling by her husband; and, with the help of her women, she was trying to resuscitate him by rubbing him, and putting hot napkins on his chest. But for these wise precautions she would be a widow at this moment; whilst, as it is, he may live a long time yet. I really believe this precious count has as many lives as a cat. Four of us carried him upstairs and put him to bed. He soon began to move, and opened his eyes; and a quarter of an hour later he had recovered consciousness, and spoke readily, though in a somewhat feeble voice. Of course, I asked what had happened, and for the first time in my life I saw the countess' marvelous self-possession forsake her. She stammered pitifully, looking at her husband with a most frightened air, as if she wished to read in his eyes what she should say. He understood to answer me; but he also was evidently much embarrassed. He said, that being left alone, and feeling better than usual, he had taken it into his head to try his strength. He had risen, put on his dressing-gown, and gone down stairs; but, in the act of entering the room, he had become dizzy, and had unfortunately fallen so as to hurt his forehead against the sharp corner of a table. I pretended to believe him, and replied, 'You have done a very imprudent thing, and it must not happen again.' Then he looked at his wife in a very singular way, and answered, 'Oh! you may be sure I shall not be guilty of a similar imprudence. I do so want to get well. I have never wished it so much as now.'"

M. Folgat was on the point of speaking, but the doctor raised his hand. "Wait, I have not done yet," he said. And, manipulating his spectacles most assiduously, he continued, "I was about returning home, when suddenly a chambermaid came in with a frightened air to tell the countess that her elder daughter, little Martha, had just been seized with terrible convulsions. Of course I went to see her, and found her suffering from a truly fearful nervous attack. It was only with great difficulty that I could quiet her; and when I thought she had recovered, suspecting that there might be some connection between her attack and the accident that had befallen her father, I said, in the most paternal tone I could assume, 'Now, my child, you must tell me what was the matter.' She hesitated a while, but eventually replied, 'I was frightened.' —'Frightened at what, my darling?' She raised herself on the bed, trying to consult her mother's eyes; but I had placed myself between them, so that they could not see each other. When I repeated my question, she said, 'Well, you see, I had just gone to bed, when I heard the bell ring. I got up and went to the window to see who could be coming so late. I saw the servant go and open the gate, and come back to the house, followed by a gentleman whom I did not know.' The countess interrupted her here, saying, 'It was a messenger from the court, who was sent to me with an urgent letter.' I pretended not to hear her; and still turning toward Martha, I asked again, 'And it was this gentleman who frightened you so?'—'Oh, no!'—'What, then?' I paused for a reply, and glanced aside at the countess. She seemed to be terribly embarrassed. Still she did not dare to stop her daughter. 'Well, doctor,' said the little girl, 'no sooner had the gentleman gone into the house than I saw one of the statues under the trees there come down from its pedestal, and glide very quietly along the avenue.'"

M. Folgat here interrupted with the remark, "Do you remember, doctor, the day we were questioning little Martha, she said she was terribly frightened by the statues in the garden?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the doctor. "But wait awhile. The countess promptly interrupted her daughter, saying to me, 'But, dear doctor, you ought to forbid the child to have such notions in her head. At Valpinson she never was afraid, and used to go at night-time all over the house quite alone and even without a light. Here, however, she is frightened at everything; and as soon as night comes, she fancies the garden is full of ghosts. You are too big now, Martha, to think that statues, which are made of stone, can come to life and walk about.' The child was shuddering. 'The other times, mamma,' she said, 'I was not quite sure but this time I am sure. I wanted to go away from the window and couldn't. I saw it all, saw it perfectly. I saw the statue—the ghost—come up the avenue slowly, and cautiously, and then place itself behind the last tree, the one nearest to the parlor window. Next I heard a loud cry, and then nothing more. The ghost remained all the time behind the trees, and I saw all it did; it turned to the left and to the right; it drew itself up, and it crouched down. Then all of a sudden I heard two terrible cries: Oh, mamma, such cries! Then the ghost raised one arm, this way, and the next moment it had gone; but immediately afterward another one came out, and disappeared too.'"

M. Folgat seemed overcome with amazement. "Oh, these ghosts!" he said.

"You suspect them, do you? I suspected them at once. Still I pretended to turn Martha's whole story into a joke, and tried to explain to her how the darkness makes us liable to all kinds of optical illusions, so that when I left, the countess was evidently quite sure I had no suspicions. In fact I had none, my ideas were not suspicions but certainties. Accordingly, as soon as I got into the garden, I dropped a piece of money which I had kept in my hand on purpose. Of course I set to work looking for it at the foot of the tree nearest to the parlor window, while the servant who was showing me out helped me with his lantern. Well, M. Folgat, I can assure you that it was not a ghost that had been walking about under the trees; and, if the footmarks which I found there were made by a statue, that statue must have enormous feet, and wear huge iron-shod shoes."

The young advocate was prepared for this conclusion. "There is no doubt about it," he remarked. "The scene had a witness?"

THEOLOGY AND SOCIOLOGY OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE

Dr. W. A. Stanton Says Church Needs Proper Combination of the Two to Accomplish Its Mission.

"I plead for a sociology that may mix with true theology and a theology that, when applied, will be a true sociology," said the Rev. W. A. Stanton, pastor of the Shady Avenue Baptist church, yesterday morning in his sermon on "The Church and the Social Ideals." "Unless the church can give us this combination," he asked, "what or who can?" Mr. Stanton said further:

The world needs a sociological as well as a theological church—a church that studies and treats man as a member of society as well as an individual, a church that studies society as well as its units. Such a church would be a sociological church. It need not therefore cease being theological. Let it be both and under-emphasize neither. Anthropology is the science of man as man, sociology is the study of man as a social being with multitudinous relationships. Theology is the study of God. It includes man in his relationships to God, but pure, dogmatic theology does not have much to do with man's relationships to his fellow man.

The church has been nothing if not theological. Indeed, there are some suspicions that it has overworked itself in this direction to the neglect of its sociological side. It is true that a clear, logical, reasonable theology is essential to any church that seeks to worship God in truth, but there are other essentials. It is time to humanize our theology, to apply it to the working out of practical righteousness, to make it a factor in the establishment of a kingdom of God on earth, such as Jesus had in mind when he declared to his disciples that unless their righteousness exceeded the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees they would not even see such a kingdom. There are two commands that are equal—love the Lord, thy God, with all thy soul, mind and strength; love thy neighbor as thyself. I say they are equal. But too much the church has been tempted to make obedience to the first a sole condition of salvation.

PREACHER SHOULD LIVE UP TO WHAT HE TEACHES

To Proclaim Religion of Love and Be Narrow and Prejudiced is to Invite Condemnation.

The 21st lecture of the fifth series of Sunday services held under the auspices of the Reform Congregation Rodeph Shalom in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, was delivered yesterday morning by the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, who spoke on "A Criticism of the Pulpit." Dr. Levy said:

The congregation has a right to expect the preacher to live up to his own instructions. He must practice what he preaches. He must live what he teaches. To say, "Our Father, God," and to despise "our brother, man," is to convict oneself of inconsistency. To preach a God of mercy and to consign millions to hell for refusing to accept dogmas, which reason and conscience reject, is to lay oneself open to charges of intolerance or real blasphemy. To teach a religion of love and to live swayed by narrow prejudices is to invite condemnation as hypocrites. To speak of charity as religion's high manifestation and to judge hastily, to condemn others unheard, often though their offense appear great, is to contradict essential truth, to deny the teaching of the masters who said "judge not."

Let the congregation be as frank with the pulpit as the honest preacher is with the pew. They should often take counsel together. If resignations of preachers were asked a little more often, when instead of providing the congregation with the bread of life they tender the dry bones of dead theology, there would be more interest taken in matters religious. If criticisms of the pulpit, offered in a reverential and hearty manner, were more often invited, the influence of the pulpit would grow more vital, more helpful, more elevating.

CONGREGATION HONORS PASTOR ON ANNIVERSARY

KITTANNING, PA., March 25.—(Special.)—The Rev. Dr. H. L. Mayers preached a special sermon this morning in celebration of his 25th anniversary as pastor of the First Presbyterian church. When Dr. Mayers was installed pastor of the church in 1881 the membership of the congregation was 500. It is now nearly 700. The congregation has built and paid for a church which cost $100,000. The societies of the church held a reception in the pastor's honor and presented him with 1,000 pieces of silver money. The First Presbyterian church is the largest and wealthiest in the Kittanning presbytery.

NEWTON HILL TO ASK FOR PARDON

Prisoner Serving Life Sentence for Murder of Mrs. Rose Roetzler Seeks Release.

STILL ASSERTS INNOCENCE

Application will be made next month for the pardon and release of James Newton Hill, now serving a life sentence in the Western penitentiary for the murder of Mrs. Rose Roetzler. Hill has served almost 14 years, and has been a model prisoner. A number of well-known men have taken an interest in his case. Attorneys Carney & Martin have prepared the application to be presented April 18, and Superintendent Glenn of the Allegheny police bureau has signified his willingness to give aid by recommending that Hill be pardoned.

The crime was committed in East park, near Cedar and Washington avenues, Allegheny, about 11 o'clock on the night of March 7, 1893. The victim, Mrs. Rose Roetzler, was a young widow of Apollo, Pa., whose husband had been a chemist in the employe of the Apollo Iron Company. Mr. Roetzler had been a lover of horses during his life, and for some time Hill had been his coachman. It was at this time that Hill became acquainted with Mrs. Roetzler.

The evidence at the trial brought out that on the night of the murder Hill had met Mrs. Roetzler at the Allegheny market house early in the evening, had taken a walk with her to Pittsburgh and had returned to Allegheny. A pint of whisky was bought at a place near the scene of the murder. The couple sat on a bench shadowed by the thick shubbery that grew there at the time. Immediately after the shots were heard a number of persons, including Police Capt. James Thornton, found Hill and Mrs. Roetzler lying in the grass.

The woman had two bullets in her head and her throat was slashed. Hill had a horrible gash across his throat that almost severed his head. The woman was dead before she reached the Allegheny General hospital, and although Hill had a wound that ordinarily would cause death almost instantly, he survived. He was convicted at the June term of court and on November 16, 1893, was sentenced to be hanged.

During the months of recovery Hill's wound never healed, and to this day he has a silver tube in his throat, put there while he lay in the hospital.

The injury in his throat saved Hill from the gallows. The cut extended from ear to ear and never closed. The attention of Gov. Robert E. Pattison was called to this and he ordered the sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Never once during the subsequent years has Hill digressed from his first story. He denies guilt and declares a man came up behind Mrs. Roetzler and him, shot the woman, cut her throat and then cut Hill's throat. Some years ago he made application for a pardon but the application was refused.

Several days ago Mr. Hill wrote the following letter to Mr. Carney, one of his attorneys:

Makes Plans for Pardon.

I thought it best for me to write you a few lines to leave you know that my wife will be to see you some day this week, and I want you to have those petitions that I spoke to you about, as I want to get all the signatures I can. And about those letters I had before, I think, since it has been so long since they were written, it would be best to get all the parties to write again, and more if we can, and will have them sent to you. I think it would be well for you to have everything prepared for April 18, for they may give the hearing the same day. They have done that before, and that would be all the better and save you from going back. The next month I do hope you will make your very best effort for me and you will not lose by it. I will trust to you to make a hard fight for me. The fact of my good wife being so faithful to me through all these long weary years is a good plea in itself. That ought to have some bearing on the case. Hoping we will have good luck, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
JAMES N. HILL.

P. S.—My case was not taken to the supreme court, so that ought to have some bearing on the matter. If you bring this in your argument it may help some. I did not have the money to go to the higher court.

GIVES FAREWELL PROGRAM.

Choir of Calvary Lutheran Church, Wilkinsburg, Leaves—Council Must Retrench.

The quartet of the Calvary Evangelical Lutheran church gave a farewell musical program in that church yesterday, the church council having found it necessary to dispense with its services in order to cut down expenses. The musical numbers were well rendered, a bass solo by Director Schmecker being especially good. The personnel of the choir was: Mrs. McCabe, soprano; Mrs. Brennen, contralto; W. J. Hiles, tenor; Henry Schmecker, basso and director, and Miss Orton, organist.

That there had been any friction between the choir and the council was denied absolutely by the pastor, the Rev. J. Bradley Markward, last evening. He said the choir had given great satisfaction, but the church was not financially able to retain its services.

ACCEPT AMERICAN PLAN.

Delegates to Algeciras Conference State the United States Has Solved Moroccan Problem.

ALGECIRAS, March 25.—Both the German and the French delegates to the conference on Moroccan reforms today stated that the outlook for an agreement was eminently hopeful, but neither would make a more definite statement. The representatives of the neutral powers, however, asserted that the principal work of the conference had been virtually concluded and that a settlement was imminent, but said there might possibly be minor hitches in connection with the details.

The delegate of a prominent neutral power, in outlining the procedure for tomorrow's sitting of the conference, said that an agreement had practically been attained beforehand and that the American proposition relative to a mixed police force was destined to serve as the final arrangement.

WARMEST DAY OF YEAR AT SPRINGS

Pittsburgh Players Do Not Practice, but Go on Journeys Sight-Seeing.

PHILLIPPE IS DISAPPOINTED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., March 25.—This was the warmest day of the year in Hot Springs. The bright sunshine turned the loungers from the Pirate camp out into valley vapors, and up to the summit of that particular Ozark hill in which nature has stored her famed fountains of health. None remained indoors.

During the morning hours several previously arranged plans for excursions afoot into the country roundabout were carried into execution. Meier led one party of pedestrians and Flaherty was pacemaker for another. Their adventures and their impressions of the country formed topic for conversation in the camp at night.

Honus Wagner withstood the temptations of Happy Hollow for once, and instead of spending the evening on the Hot Springs midway, took several others with him to a jack rabbit place at the dog kennels. Happy Hollow with its village, mountain climbing, donkeys and photograph galleries got a strong play from the Pittsburghers, however, nearly all of them visiting the valley during the forenoon or afternoon.

The only man who was made unhappy by the out-of-door craze was Phillippe. The Deacon's favorite method of getting his salary arm into shape is by exhorting the brethren at the sessions in his room, but there was nothing doing in the exhorting line today.

Leever, Nealon and Sheehan made up a trio who forgot it was a day of rest and recreation. Instead of joining the pleasure party they climbed up the side of the mountain on the government reservation and spent some time in the 100-foot tower on the summit, from which point they solemnly aver tonight that they observed all the other Pirate parties in their movements through Happy Hollow and over the country roads.

Capt. Fred Clarke and President Dreyfuss had a heart-to-heart talk at the hotel, lasting about two hours, and the ears of all the Pirates must have tingled while the conference was in progress. There was an exchange of views between them relative to the new material and an arrangement of definite plans for the remainder of the practice season, which, however, involved no radical change from the program previously announced. The most severe test of the new men will be made during the coming week. They will be given every opportunity to show of what quality of baseball material they are constructed.

ONCE A VAGABOND.

Now Carajal Hopes to Win the Great Marathon Race in Greece.

NEW YORK, March 24.—(Special.)—Cuba intends to win the great Olympian race at Athens. The fact that every country large enough to be on a map has entered athletes desirous of capturing that famous 26-mile event does not disturb the Cubans in the least. Reel off the names of famous American or English runners to any Cuban and he will shrug his shoulders, raise his eyebrows, take a long pull at his cigaret and say:

"Ah, yes! Very nice. But there is Felix Carajal."

Two years ago the third renewal of the Olympic games was to be held at St. Louis and the Marathon race was its greatest event. A couple of months before that one hot day the mayor of Havana was sitting in his arm chair puffing a cigaret. A vagabond, a sort of scrawny little fellow, elbowed past his private secretary and asked for an audience.

"What do you want?" demanded the mayor.

The mayor made out that his desire was to be sent to the United States to run in the Marathon race. He explained that he was a great runner and would win if given a chance.

The mayor told him to get out.

Felix Carajal, ejected from the mayor's presence, slipped into the street, still determined to show that he could run. The great square—the Plaza de Armas—in which the palace and city hall stood, was before him.

To make a short story of a long run Felix Carajal ran around that square, passing and passing again the mayor's windows the whole day long.

At the day's end the mayor descended into the street. The crowd blocked his way and while he stopped to find out the cause of so much interest Felix Carajal went by again. Someone eagerly told the mayor all about it.

The mayor of Havana was a wise man.

"Here is an order for your transportation to St. Louis and return," said the mayor. "Go and do your best."

After getting a bad start Carajal stopped to eat apples, but came in third in the St. Louis race.

Carajal is in Athens now. He started early to get plenty of training on the road over which the Marathon will be run.

SHORTSTOP CASSIDY DIES FROM PECULIAR DISEASE

CHESTER, PA., March 25.—Joseph Cassidy, shortstop of the Washington American league baseball club, died at his home in this city today. He had been ill for seven weeks with a peculiar disease which his doctor termed purpuro hemorrhagia, the blood turning to water. A number of specialists, however, did not agree with the diagnosis. Cassidy, who was 23 years of age and unmarried, resided in Chester all of his life, where he learned to play ball. He was secured by Washington in 1904 from the Harrisburg, Pa., Tri-State league club.

PRINCETON IS STRONG ON THE PITCHING SLAB

Tigers Have Veterans of Former Teams Left Over for Nine This Spring.

Indication Is That Fast Bunch Will Fight for the Championship.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 25.—(Special.)—The late and heavy falls of snow in the early part of the week, have been a source of disappointment to the Princeton baseball team. A game was scheduled for yesterday with New York university, to be played here, but the wretched condition of the field gave no possibility of the contest. Judging from the apparently early spring, the Tigers fully expected to be given a thorough trying out with the New Yorkers yesterday. As things look now Ursinus will not be able to cross bats with the Tigers next Wednesday. Trinity is due here next Saturday, and it is believed they will prove the opening game.

The squad has been working for about three weeks, mainly in the cage, though one or two scrub matches were played on an improvised diamond outdoors. The candidates from the freshman class have been carefully looked over by Coach W. B. Cosgrave and Captain Reid, and out of a very large number but seven remain. The call for men from the three upper classes was also well responded to. At present practically all of the baseball players in the university are at work in the squad.

Thus far it appears that a fast team will represent Princeton on the diamond this spring, but, of course, anti-season prospects are not by a rule very reliable. The freshmen have produced a few men who give promise of playing star baseball, while the upper classes contain several of last year's 'varsity and scrub and players who held positions on their freshman team.

Of the catchers, Cooney, '07, last year's football captain, seems to be the choice. He is a very reliable man behind the bat, and, although perhaps a trifle slow at base running, is a good batter. Cogan, who has played on two 'varsity baseball teams, is a valuable man for the reason that his coaching and knowledge of the game are almost indispensable to the Tigers. L. Doyle '07, will probably substitute at the receiving end of the battery. While not so steady as Cooney, Doyle bats well, and therefore may be used in the outfield when not catching.

D. Doyle, '05, will in all probability be one of Princeton's mainstays in the box this season. Doyle became well known last year through the phenomenal game he pitched and won against Amherst in eighteen innings. He has an assortment of curves that proved to be puzzling in 1905 and which gives promise of expanding this spring. He is very heady and cool when in the game. Byram, '08, who has played on the 'varsity team three years, will divide the box work with Doyle. Byram's pitching last season was not up to his standard, he has great speed, but is not as consistent as Doyle is. Heynigar, a freshman from Lawrenceville, is also expected to do a fair amount of twirling. He is speedy, but will have to acquire better control of his curves to be depended on. Heynigar is a heavy hitter; on that account he is likely to secure an outfield position when not in the box. Jones, another freshman, is doing efficient work in practice, and his speed may bring him into prominence before long. Gray, '08, is a good man who was used several times last season in minor games. With this number of twirlers the Tigers ought to feel pretty well satisfied that their pitching staff will be one of the strongest departments in the game.

First base will undoubtedly be again covered by Bard, '06, who has played there for the past two years. Bard handles himself well, but his weakness at the bat handicaps him greatly. Hamill, '08, played on his freshman team last year and will likely substitute for Bard. He is fairly steady, but is slow on his feet. It is said that McLean, '07, may be put on the initial bag because of his superior hitting.

Second base and shortstop are virtually decided on. Vaughan, the Exeter freshman, is without a doubt the fastest man on the entire squad. He scoops up grounders and covers as much ground as a professional. At Exeter last year Vaughan led the team in batting. He will hold down second. Captain S. J. Reid, '06, again gives promise of a repetition of his brilliant all-around work. Reid is a heady player. He will direct the team from shortstop.

Sides a freshman from Brooklyn High, appears to have first call at third base. He is a heavily-built fellow with a strong wing and a sure eye. His hitting has been good, though he has a tendency to bat out fly balls. Fish, '08, who captained his freshman team in 1905, is another candidate for third. In his prep. school—Philadelphia Central high—Fish was considered an excellent running mate with "Jack" Knight, now with the Athletics. His work has somewhat fallen off. He is, nevertheless, quite consistent and the competition between him and Sides will be interesting. Warwick, a freshman from Princeton Prep., is also doing well at third.

In the outfield Newcomb, '07; E. Dillon, '06; Wister, '08, and Heynigar and L. Doyle, of whom the last two mention has been made, are all likely men. Newcomb is a fine hitter and is fast in the field. He will probably be stationed at center. Dillon played a strong game for Andover last year and should prove to be a valuable addition to the Tigers. Wister was on his freshman team last spring. His fielding is all right, but he is weak with the stick.

This nucleus of material ought to be a source of encouragement to Princetonians who look toward the baseball team to round out the college year successfully. The preliminary games will, however, be necessary to give a practical line on the ability of the Tigers.

THREE BIG WESTERN COLLEGES MAY SPLIT

Michigan, Wisconsin and Chicago will not meet each other in football next fall, if a plan now being worked out by the faculty representatives of these three of the leaders of western college athletics is agreed upon. According to the new scheme, which is aimed to supplement the work of the recent "reform" conference and give the gridiron game a final blow, the schedules of the three big universities must be made up of contests with other institutions.

The deal is being engineered independently of the regular conference committee. Michigan, it is declared, started the movement, and had no difficulty in gaining the ready support of Chicago and Wisconsin.

The Harvard varsity crew had its first long time row of the season Saturday afternoon. The varsity eight went over a three and three-eighths mile course on the Charles river in time fast enough to warrant the statement of Coach Wray that Harvard is going to have a faster crew this year than last.

The green men, Richardson, Glass, Emmons and Fish, stood the strain of the long row in good shape. In the last quarter of the race the eight got together and finished with a fine burst of speed. The time was not given out.

The order of the crew was: Filley, stroke; Newhall, 7; Bacon, 6; Richardson, 5; Glass, 4; Emmons, 3; Fish, 2; Flint, bow; Arnold, coxswain.

Two additions were made Saturday night to the list of smashed Michigan records, Goodwin lowering the record in the quarter mile and Ramey breaking the record in the half mile. Goodwin ran the quarter in 0:53 1-5, clipping one-fifth of a second from the Michigan record. Ramey negotiated the half mile in 1:58 3-5, knocking four-fifths of a second from the record he himself established two weeks ago.

The only other noble achievement at the meet was the equaling of the Michigan record of 0:04 3-5 in the forty yards dash by Bowman. The summaries:

Shot put—First, Coe; second, Dunlap; third, Garvin. Distance—46 feet 6¼ inches.

Forty yard dash—First, Bowman; second, Hull; third, Bristol. Time—0:04 3-5.

Forty yard high hurdles—First, Hodgen; second, Garrels; third, Malcolmson. Time—0:06 3-5.

Forty yards, low hurdles—First, Malcolmson; second, Golton; third, Post. Time—0:06 2-5.

Mile rune—First, Coe; second, Rowe; third, Dull. Time—4:51 2-5.

Special handicap, 40 yards dash—First, Archie Hahn; second, Bowman; third, Bristol. Time—0:04 3-5. Bowman and Bristol were given two feet by Hahn.

Pole vault—First, Marker; second, Bishop and Hunt. Height—10 feet.

Four hundred and forty yards run—First, Goodwin; second, Shenk; third, Livingston. Time—0:53 1-5.

Eight hundred and eighty yard run—First, Ramey; second, Waldeck; third, Eldridge. Time—1:58 2-5.

High jump—First, Pinch; second, Dodds and Hopkins. Height—5 feet 10 inches.

Leo De Tray, the Chicago half back, appeared on the Midway campus Saturday for the first time since the Thanksgiving day game. De Tray has been confined to his home with an injury to his eye since the middle of November, coming out only to play the second half of the Michigan game.

Sales. Team Shutout.

The Invoice seven beat the sales department of the Carnegie Steel Company in a hocky game, 4 to 0. Jahn and Noble of the beaten team did well.

LATE NEWS OF THE INDEPENDENT TOSSERS

Lynn Moffet, a second baseman and captain of the Indiana Normal school, who is to play with Washington in the P. O. M. league this season, is home on a short vacation. "I have arranged with Manager Seamon to join him when school closes, which will be about June 26. It is impossible for me to get away earlier, but Seamon agreed to my staying. Indiana will have a good team this year again. We open our season with the Johnstown Tri-State league club," said Moffet.

Pitcher Frank Eastley is practicing daily with the Shadyside academy candidates. He is showing Chos Babst a few pointers. Babst may do most of the pitching for Shadyside this spring.

Denny O'Hara, the old Greensburg shortstop, will probably return to Fall River in the New England league. He hit .278 last year. He is now in Pittsburgh.

President Charles P. Carpenter of the Tri-State, has selected Bill Smink of Pittsburgh to be one of the Tri-State umpires. Smink was an umpire in the Connecticut league last year and was one of the best. He was a catcher in the Johnstown State league team some years ago. During a game he was struck on the forehead with a pitched ball, which was thrown with such force that it rebounded into the pitcher's hands without the latter leaving the box. Smink rubbed his head and ran down to first.

Manager Stetler of the New Castle team has signed four Altoona players for his team. They are Arthur Thomas, for shortstop; Joe Williams, for second, and George Moore and Roy Fennell, for pitchers.

Jake Magie, the outfielder with Altoona last season, will replace Eddie Pleiss in Johnstown's outfield.

Manager J. Frank Forrester has announced the lineup of the Piedmont team as follows: Ament and Selvage, catchers; Pattison, Bertrand, Webster, Hart and Fahey, pitchers; Beall, first; Seward, second; Sap, short; Hover, third; Culbertson, Clayton and Schroeder, outfielders. Ament, Seward, Culbertson and Pattison were with the team last year. Fahey is regarded as a find. Piedmont will play independent ball and will not be in any league.

Johnstown has signed Fred Raymer of the Boston Nationals for the infield.

Pat Dowling, the old Georgetown university and Johnstown player, has signed with Memphis in the Southern league.

Jack Bonner, the Harrisburg second baseman, is the first to be on the ground. He reported last week.

Baltimore is doing her best to recall to the fold the crack left-hander, Burchell, who signed a Johnstown contract two months ago.

The Williamsport team is figuring on a southern trip and will make one if the weather doesn't open up within the next week or ten days. York may also go south, a resident of that town having offered to pay the expense.

BOWLERS SPEND DAY SEEING THE SIGHTS

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 25.—(Special.)—Bowlers in the lead in the individual event in the national bowling tournament had a spell of anxiety today when they heard Walter Tuthill, of Brooklyn, would be reinstated as the leader in the individual contest. This story was later boiled down to read that Tuthill's suspension from future tournaments would be raised, but that his 675 score would have no standing in the present tournament.

Most of the visitors here today spent the time in visiting the mammoth cave or else devoted their time to special matches.

The eastern team which is going to Chicago looking for special matches was selected today. Johnny Vorheis, Jimmy Smith, George Haler, Lee Johns and William Noack being the men.

The two-men winners of the Western Bowling congress, George Kuppinger and Billy Elwert, formerly Belleville (Ill.) men, telegraphed Sam Karpf they challenged the A. B. C. two-men winners—Hamilton and Hussey, of Philadelphia, for $1,000. Karpf wired back that Jimmy Smith and Johnny Vorheis would bowl them in Chicago instead.

Easily the happiest man at the present meet is Pat Corrigan, the Cleveland bookmaker, who is thousands to the good. Only eight five-men teams remain to bowl, the only good teams being the Old Forresters and Columbian Knights No. 1, of Chicago.

Bowling Notes.

The St. Joseph's will bowl the St. Anthony's on the St. Anthony's alleys tonight.

The St. Joe's would like to roll off a postponed match on the St. Charles alleys Thursday night. Capt. Glock of St. Charles is to answer through The Gazette.

St. Anthony would like to bowl the postponed match with St. Henry Thursday on St. Henry's alleys. Answer through The Gazette.

The St. Charles team of the Diocesan league will bowl the St. Henry's on the St. Henry's alleys tonight.

Big Shoot is Promised.

MILTON, PA., March 25.—The sixteenth annual tournament of the Pennsylvania State Sportsman's association which will be held this year at Milton under the auspices of Milton Rod and Gun club, May 15, 16, 17 and 18, promises to eclipse anything in the shooting line ever held in Pennsylvania.

The program will be out early in April and will contain many names of historical interest to every shooter of the state. It will give a history of each trophy and the list of every winner with the scores which won them.

YALE'S ELIGIBILITY CODE.

Certain Professional School Men Will Be Available Next Fall.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., March 25.—The full set of Yale, Harvard and Princeton eligibility rules has not been promulgated for next season, but the code has been tentatively drafted, and it is known that professional school players at Yale will be allowed to compete, unless they came to Yale having had a degree equal to the Bachelor of Arts degree at Yale.

This will make Levine and Forbes eligible for the Yale eleven again next fall. The other two professional school players here are Flanders and Cates. Flanders will not be eligible and Cates will be graduated. This will leave as the nucleus of the eleven for next season Bigelow, Erwin, Forbes, the Jones brothers, Morse, Roome and Levine. As no freshmen will be allowed to play next fall, the team will have to be recruited from them and the substitutes of last season.

FRANK SMITH SIGNS.

Comiskey Announces That White Sox Pitcher Will Join the Team Soon.

WICHITA, KAN., March 25.—(Special.)—President Charles A. Comiskey of the White Sox announced today that Pitcher Frank Smith had signed for the coming season, and would report as soon as his wife recovered from her recent illness. This puts to rest all the rumors that Smith would not be seen in a White Sox uniform during the coming season, and that he was going with Pittsburgh as soon as he could get his release from Comiskey.

Comiskey also said that he would probably leave the squad and return to Chicago some time next week.

Gould Wins in Finals.

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., March 25.—In the final round for the Eastern states championship for the gold racquet in court tennis today at the court of the Tuxedo Tennis and Racquet club, Jay Gould of Georgian Court, Lakewood, easily defeated Pierre Lorillard, Jr., of the Tuxedo Tennis and Racquet club in three straight sets, 6-2, 6-0 6-1. Gould is looked upon as a strong candidate for the national championship next week. T. Suffern Taller, with C. Ledyard Blair as partner defeated George J. Gould and Benjamin Nicoll, in two straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

Sharon Gets Another Pitcher.

SHARON, PA., March 25.—(Special.)—Manager Frank Yoho has signed Pitcher Billy Hoffenus of Buffalo. Yoho has now eight pitchers on his staff.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Joe Alton is wanted at Plymouth, Pa., to meet a fighter of that place. He may accept as the would-be fighters here at his weight have all taken to the woods since Jimmy Mason posted the money for his man to meet any of the fighters here. Alton cannot lay off a day from his work, but he is ready to meet any one here up to 126 pounds, weigh in at 3 o'clock.

Paul Moore is busy training at the Business Men's club every day for his bout with Johnny Murray of Philadelphia, whom he meets Thursday night at the armory. After this show Moore will be matched to meet any one that can be secured at or near his weight. Paul is one of the few real fighters here that has made good in all the bouts that he has taken part in.

Jock Phenicle is ready to meet any one here at from 105 to 112 pounds, and will make the match winner take all, and for as much a side as can be had by any one that cares to meet him. Young Bastey, who Jock made quit in a few rounds a few weeks ago, is claiming that he wants a chance to meet Phenicle again and all that he need do is to post his money.

Frank Klaus and Ned Shernoff, the best 133 pound boys, will meet at East Pittsburgh tonight for six rounds.

THE GAZETTE FASHION

A TIP-TILTED TOQUE.

Flower-trimmed hats are again fashionable this year, but there is a new way of wearing them—a coquetish way. Empire and directoire modes do not go well with puritanical millinery, so the nearest millinery designs are built to emphasize the general effect of the gowns with which they are worn. This little toque has a crown of corded chiffon finished with a double-brim of pink silk roses. There is no touch of green about the hat, the ribbon at the back being long, full loops of deep rose velvet.

The matter of hair dressing enters largely into the question of stylish headgear, too, the new season's models calling for more or less elaborate coiffures. Both the high and low coiffure is modish, but those who can wear the latter becomingly seem to perfect it. With small hats, however, the high headdress is more effective. Parted hair is also worn by women to whom it is becoming, but no woman of taste will let her devotion to fashion carry her beyond the point of an attractive coiffure. Hair ornaments are unusualy pretty this year, and the new combs, barettes, etc., show striking departures from the old conventional lines.

Points in the Fashion.

Black and white combinations with cornflower blue accessories are finding great favor. A white lawn carries out this scheme in small dots of black and a border of bachelors' buttons. With a girdle or sash of blue, this would be charming.

Stunning new silk petticoats are in ochre color and are worn with gowns of various shades. They have embroidered and corded ruffles, flaring a great deal at the sides and back. The tops are cut circular with front and back seams.

New tailored skirts show strapped seams. This will answer only for plain goods, however. Plaids and stripes are better made without any attempt at a finish either in stitching, folds or braid. The cut and pressing should give them their style.

The new lace collars follow yoke rather than cape lines. These, also any sort of bolero, chemisette or loose jacket may be esteemed a safe purchase.

A black broadcloth with plain circular skirt has a bolero in pinch tucks tapering into the waist and finished with a narrow fold of black panne velvet on which are laid two jet cords. Velvet buttons are picked out in jet.

Upholsterer's cretonne in fine Persian designs is cut into bands and used for revers, girdle or waistcoat with light cloth and linen gowns.

The girdle is becoming a combination of folds either with or without bows, buckles or ends.

The fondness for plain skirts and trimmed waists is on the increase. Even the fullest materials have only tucks, graduated or in clusters for ornamentation. Very little shirring is used unless it is to hold in the fullness at the waist line.

Gray Swiss with embroidered dots and figures of self color, black or black and white are among the best selections in summer fabrics. In fact anything in white with threads of black, black with white or gray will be preferred to the beautiful colors not only in cottons and linens, but in silks and woolens.

The Vogue of Mahogany.

The real value of mahogany as a cabinet wood was discovered by a London physician late in the seventeenth century. The doctor's brother was engaged in the West Indies trade and on one occasion brought over in his ship several logs of mahogany as ballast and suggested that the wood might be of value as beams for a house the doctor was then building.

When it was attempted to utilize this wood this way the workmen found that their tools were not equal to the task and the logs were rolled into the garden out of the way. When a box was needed a carpenter had one of the logs removed to his shop, but complained as had the others, that he could not work the material with his tools.

The doctor became interested in this perverse wood and ordered that heavier tools be made. After a delay the box was finished and proved so handsome that a bureau was made from another of the logs.

This was handsomely finished and was declared by experts to be so superior to all other woods then in use that a craze for mahogany set in largely fostered by the Duchess of Buckingham.

The Tyrany of the Decorator

If one is to trust the statement of the professional decorator, the pictures we hang upon our walls are one of the minor offenses for which we will have to answer.

The decorator recognizes possibly some distinction between good and bad pictures, but his almost invariable advice on the subject is "Don't."

Many of us like pictures. Most of us have, before the day of the decorator and the cult of "periods," enjoyed pictures in our homes. Some of us there are who still cherish a more or less sneaking desire to hang upon our home walls just those pictures, prints, photogravures, water colors or etchings that have given and continue to give us pleasure.

These pictures one and all may be out of place in a room "done" after a certain decorative design, but if one or other feature must be given up in the interest of harmony, why should it not be the formal decorative design rather than the pictures and furnishment that long association has made dear to the hearts of the family. Pictures, like people, may be loved for several different reasons. When they are so loved, hang them up and be comfortable. Many of our most delightsome rooms illustrate no particular period. They are cosy, home-like rooms, most ordinary, perhaps, rooms that have not sprung full-panoplied from the brain of the decorator, but have "jes growed," like Topsy, and taken color and character from the home life that has flowed through them from generation unto generation.

A landscape paper is often put forward as the most suitable hanging for a dining room. Of course, a series of pictures meandering over a landscape would be out of place. But there is no harm in rejecting the landscape paper altogether—personally I abhor them and begrudge their price—and hanging your dining room in soft, indefinite tones that will permit of your having your bygone kith and kin smiling down faithfully upon your breakfast muffin.

We are told again and again in the various magazines of household art to guard against the "spotted" effect. Now a wall besprinkled with an assortment of Kodaks is not always pleasing to the eye, yet the hanging of a reasonable number of medium-size pictures, each one fraught with some special meaning to the occupant of the room, or bringing a memory which we may be loath to have blotted out, is, I am sure, a forgivable sin. They fill a real want, even if a sentimental one, and where may one enjoy her peaceful pleasures if not in the place we call home?

The professional decorator is a person who has been rather too much pampered of late. He may be all right in his proper field—the palaces of the immensely rich. If a man has no home or past of which he is fond or proud there is no reason in the world why he should not expend his money for a brand new one, and when you are getting your home brand new from garret to cellar, by all means have it as "stylish" as possible. But there are some homes that have existed for years longer than that of the fad for the decorator, and will exist, we hope, for many years to come. It is the creators and perpetuators of these homes that consider the decorator an impertinent fellow and are not only loath but indignant at his efforts to cast into dust and disrepute the presentment of great-grandmother in its tarnished gold frame, or its companion, great-grandfather, in snuff-colored coat and nankeen waistcoat.

WANT AND NEED.

There's a big difference between what a baby wants and what he needs. Deny him the one, give him the other. Most babies need Scott's Emulsion—it's the right thing for a baby. It contains a lot of strength-building qualities that their food may not contain. After a while they get to want it. Why? Because it makes them comfortable. Those dimples and round cheeks mean health and ease. Scott's Emulsion makes children easy; keeps them so, too.

YOUNG, GEO. A., Allegheny.

THE GAZETTE PATTERN.

(No. 5565.) Men's Neglige Shirt.

White madras was used in the reproduction of this design for a negligee shirt. Gathers control the fullness at the back, which is attached to a shallow yoke. The regulation shirt sleeves are finished with cuffs, and the pattern provides for a turn-down collar or neckband. Silk, madras, linen and percale are all used for the making. The medium size requires three and half yards of 36-inch material.

Men's negligee shirt No. 5565: Sizes for 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches breast measure.

The pattern here issustrated will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents.

WILL BE SOLD AT A SACRIFICE

In removing to our new store on the ground floor of the Westinghouse building much of the stock was more or less marred. The stock includes

DESKS, BOOKCASES, FILING CABINETS, ETC.

These are in oak and mahogany and Filing Cabinets are both horizontal and vertical. As the present stock is slightly shopworn and we want nothing but brand new, fresh goods for the new store, the entire present line

MUST BE CLOSED OUT AT ONCE

These goods are all of the latest design and up to the well known Library Bureau standard of excellence. If you are willing to overlook a few scratches you can come here and buy the best office furniture on the market, in practically perfect condition, for a fraction of the ordinary cost.

COME AT ONCE, as the stock is limited and it will be a long time before you will be able to duplicate present prices on goods of this character.

WHY ARE
The Bellefield Dwellings
The Best Apartments
In the City?

BECAUSE they afford more of the COMFORTS of LIVING than any other apartments. Newspaper space is too expensive to tell you one-half of the luxurious comforts of these ideal modern homes. Besides, you would not be convinced by mere READING. But you will be by SEEING. That's why we invite you to a personal inspection of the Perfect Bellefield Dwellings a few suites of which will be vacant April 1.
